SALEM, Mo., July 5.—Miss Emma Bondua, the Italian opera singer, almost fainted in the courtroom Thursday when the judge took her two children from their father and gave them to her. The mother clasped her hands together as she thanked the judge in Italian; then she rushed across the courtroom and fell upon her knees in front of her two children and clasped them in her arms and sobbed aloud as she kissed first one and then the other.

The father of the two children, a Methodist clergyman, sprang to his feet when he heard the decision of the judge, and, raising his hands aloft, exclaimed, "God have mercy!" The two children, seeing their parents so excited, began to scream.

The father of the two children, the Rev. Evaristo Ghidoni, is pastor of a Methodist church in Tampa, Fla. He has a wife and two children in Italy, but he put them away to live with the beautiful opera singer. After he came to America he became infatuated with another woman and sought to be rid of the opera singer, but to keep her two children. He sent the two children with Miss Alice Brown, a Methodist missionary worker, to St. Louis.

The mother discovered where they were and came here and applied to the courts for their possession under a writ of habeas corpus.

Children Deny Their Mother. When the case was called Thursday the preacher, the woman missionary and the two children sat together. The children, Leo and Cosetta, had been trained to deny their mother.

"Who is your mother?" a man asked Leo.

"These she is," he said, pointing to Miss Brown.

"Where is your other mamma?"

"Oh, a man bought her," he answered.

Throughout the court proceedings, the mother sat and wept, except when she was upon the witness stand. She told, in her testimony, that she was an opera singer in Italy, and that Ghidoni was secretary to the Bishop of Milan. She said she fell in love with him when she first met him and she went to live with him.

"He told me that he was a single man, but that he could not marry me because of his connection with the church. I loved him, so I went with him and took his name," she testified. She told that after she had lived with him several months she learned that he had a wife and two children. He promised to come to America and get a divorce and marry her.

"He came to America, and 11 months later I came, but I found him loving another woman," she said.

"Found it in the Dictionary," she was asked.

"There she sits," exclaimed the opera singer, as she arose and dramatically pointed toward Miss Brown. "Then she is the infamous thing." She said this in Italian and it was understood by only two in the courtroom—the interpreter and the Rev. Ghidoni.

The preacher leaned to his feet, drew an Italian-English dictionary from his pocket, flipped the leaves rapidly until he found the word "infamous," and then he flew into a passion and screamed to the judge: "She said Miss Brown was infamous."

"Well, that's a matter of opinion. Sit down," said the judge.

Miss Bondua testified that Ghidoni beat her, kicked her and spat in her face, and that finally she went to New York to earn a living at singing.

"Did you ever have anything to do with any man except this preacher?" she was asked.

"No, no, no," she answered.

Ghidoni, looking every inch a clergyman, took the stand, and as he testified he spoke of Miss Bondua as "that woman," pointing scornfully at her.

He told that he put his lawful wife away in 1886 because of her unfaithfulness and of how he met Miss Bondua, the singer, and took her into his house.

SENDS NOTE TO WIDOW AND IS HELD IN $500 BAILPrisoner Admits Offense, but Says a Friend Wrote for Him.

Harry Stricklin, a professional card writer, 39 years old, was arrested Friday on a charge of sending improper mail to Mrs. M. M. Nichol, a widow living at 3055 Lucas avenue.

It is charged that Stricklin sent a card to Mrs. Nichol May 24 and a letter June 25. He admits writing the letters, but says he was ill when the card was sent and that a friend wrote it for him at his dictation.

Mrs. Nichol formerly lived in St. Louis, Neb. Since coming to St. Louis she has conducted a boarding house at the Lucas avenue address. Stricklin lived there until six weeks ago, when, she says, Mrs. Nichol told him to leave.

At the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Babbitt, Stricklin was held under $500 bond.

The young man says he is a son of Rev. T. J. Stricklin, a Methodist minister of Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

INFERNAL MACHINE
KILLING 2 MINERSSister of One Victim Says Her Suitor
Often Threatened to Commit Murder and Then Suicide.LOADED PISTOL CAUSED EXPLOSION OF POWDERTwo Men So Badly Burned That They Died Afterwards in East St. Louis Hospital Without Explaining Affair—Relatives of One Suggest Jealousy.

Kate Genetti, sister of August Genetti, who lost his life with his chum, Louis Colonia, in an explosion at Consolidated Mine No. 17, near Collinsville, Ill., said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that she was certain the infernal machine by which the two were killed was prepared by a young man whom she had refused to marry.

The rejected suitor, to whom she was for a short time engaged, blamed her brother August for her action in breaking off the engagement, and threatened both August's life and her own in the last two months, Miss Genetti said. He always coupled these threats with that of suicide.

This young man, formerly a miner in No. 17, now employed at a mine in another district, is said to have been seen in Collinsville last Friday. Number 17 was closed last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, but entrance was possible through the escape shaft.

In the locked tool and powder chest used by August Genetti and Colonia, at some time between Thursday evening, June 27, and last Monday morning, there was placed a double-barreled pistol, with both barrels loaded. The trigger was fastened by copper wire, passing through two eyelets, to the lid of the chest in such a manner that it would be pulled and the weapon discharged by raising the lid.

Two Men Fatally Burned. Two holes were punched in the sides of the small powder keg within the chest, and the two barrels were left pointing toward these in such a manner that the shot could not fail to explode the powder.

This device did its intended work when Colonia opened the chest Monday morning. Colonia was so burned that he died a few hours later at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. Genetti, also taken to the hospital, died Thursday.

"I have known this young man three years," said Kate Genetti Friday at her home, where she lies prostrated by her brother's death. She is slender and dark, with brown hair and eyes.

"A year ago he commenced, all of a sudden, to make love to me. I disliked him, so I refused him right away. He kept begging me to marry him, and one day he came to me and said he had a vision. He said he had seen my mother—she died years ago—dressed all in white, and that she had commanded him three times to marry me.

"The way he told it frightened me, and I told him I would obey my mother and marry him. But before the time came, I decided he had been lying about the vision, and told him I wouldn't marry him.

"When I told August, he said that was good, and he would rather see me dead than married to that man.

Threatened Murder and Suicide. "August must have said the same to him, for the next time I saw him he told me he would kill August and then himself. When August heard of that, he told him to keep away from all of us. Then he quit the mine and left Collinsville.

"Three weeks ago he came back and called to see me when I was all alone. He drew a revolver and told me he would kill me and himself unless I would marry him. I begged him not to talk that way, and he got to crying and offered me the revolver and told me to kill him unless I would marry him. I wouldn't listen, and he went away.

"I have heard he was jealous of Louis, but there was never anything between Louis and me, and I don't think he meant to kill Louis, only August."

William and John Genetti, uncle and cousin of August and Kate Genetti, share her belief as to the source of the death plot. The dying statement of Louis Colonia, made to them in Italian, has confirmed them in their belief.

The two men refused Friday to tell anyone the name of the young man they suspect. It is not the custom in their native country, they said, for relatives of murdered men to leave such matters to the law.

The chest used by Genetti and Colonia was kept in the toolroom of the mine. The keg inside, with a capacity of 25 pounds of powder, contained 10 pounds.

Genetti, Colonia, John Welsh and Anton Davis entered the toolroom together shortly before 8 a. m. Monday. Colonia, who had the key of the chest, unlocked it and raised the lid four or five inches.

There was a loud report and a blinding flash, and Colonia fell, his face burned away by the blast. Genetti, stunned and seriously burned, rose and tried to save his chum, whose clothes were burning. His own fatal burns, it is believed, were received in this work rather than by the explosion.

Delay in Rescue. Buckets were lowered for the men. Welsh and Davis, neither dangerously burned, climbed in in succession, and it was nearly a half hour before Colonia was taken to the surface. When the condition of Colonia and Genetti was seen, they were placed on a special electric car and hurried to East St. Louis.

Genetti's uncle, who is a miner, and his cousin, who lately left the mines and opened a bakery, rode with the injured men from Collinsville to East St. Louis. The uncle said Friday:

"August wouldn't say a word about it, whether because he was hurt so bad or because he didn't want to talk we couldn't tell. But Louis talked all the doctors would let him.

"Louis said he knew it was meant for August, not for him. He said it was the young fellow who wanted to marry Kate Genetti, and was mad at August because he thought August induced her to refuse him.

"My son asked Louis if somebody might not have rigged up the gun to catch powder thieves, he said no, they had no trouble with thieves. The last time he and August were at the chest, there was no gun in it, he said. It was locked Monday, so whoever put the pistol in must have had a key."

The blackened revolver, the attached copper wire and other evidences of the plot, were shown to Supt. Fred Houch, who at first supposed that the powder had been ignited from the lamp on Colonia's cap. He employed two detectives, and summoned Walton Rutledge of Alton, State Mine Inspector. Both agreed that the proof of a plot was plain.

Colonia and Genetti were naturalized American citizens. They associated little with other miners of their own nationality.

MOTHER ASKS HABEAS CORPUS; WANTS HER CHILD BACK

Says Woman Has Boy by Former Marriage and Will Not Give Him Up.

Mrs. William Richards of 239 Cags avenue filed suit Friday at Clayton for a writ of habeas corpus, to obtain possession of Ward Oswald, her 8-year-old son by a former marriage. She says Mrs. Mary Davidson of 613 Ella avenue has custody of the lad and will not surrender him.

Mrs. Richards says that a year ago, when she was about to leave St. Louis temporarily, she left the boy in care of Mrs. Davidson, a friend, to whom she is not related. She says that on her return home Mrs. Davidson refused to surrender the lad, and has kept him ever since.

CITY'S POWER IN THE HARBOR QUESTIONED

Federal Government Heretofore Has Let Municipality Rule Wharf.

HARBOR IS NOT CLEAR

Private Concerns Have Permits to Go Beyond the Inner Line.

TERMINAL ISSUE NEW

Engineers' Decision May Force Removal of Tracks on Levee.

The most serious obstacle to the plans of the Terminal Railroad Association for freight yards, including team trackage and depots on the wharf between Mulhenny and North Market streets, seems to be the United States Government. The War Department has established what are called inner and outer harbor lines along the strip wanted and the Government engineering corps in St. Louis holds that when the space between the lines, which varies here from 250 feet to 260 feet in width, is improved or in any way changed from its present condition, it must be graded to a gradual slope. The slope may be paved, but no building, trestle or other permanent structure erected.

At the head of the corps is Col. Clinton B. Sears, his assistants being Majors William S. Mitchell and William M. Pettiman. Col. Sears and Maj. Mitchell celebrated the Fourth of July with Albert T. Perkins, adviser to the Municipal Bridge and Terminal Commission, in examining blueprints of the river front from Ashley to North Market streets.

Another meeting will be held next week, but it may be several weeks before the Government's final decision in the matter will be made. The blueprints give cross-sections of the wharf, showing that the levee now extends at the foot of Ashley street and for several blocks north almost to the outer harbor line.

The Government's View. One of the Government engineers outlined the position of the Government, as he understands it, for the Post-Dispatch. He said that he was not speaking for the Government engineering corps and had no authority to represent it.

The Government as a rule, he said, required the river front of a city to have a gradual slope, but an exception was sometimes made, as in the case of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.'s generating station at the foot of Ashley street. This plant stands on the site of the old St. Louis elevator, which occupied it for nearly thirty years, and as the foundation walls of the electric light station were already built when the Government's harbor lines of 1893 were established, a permit was given the company to complete the structure, the permit stating that the War Department had not surrendered its right to have the building removed at any time the river was thought advisable.

When attention was called to the city's obstruction of the Government's harbor lines near the foot of Levee street, the representative of the War Department answered that the Government made an exception of the structure for a like reason—because the obstruction was already there when the harbor lines of 1893 were established.

Effect of Changes. As to this new improvement, which would take about a mile of the river front and was still only projected, not consummated, the position of the Government might be different, he said.

He could recall no conflict between the Federal Government and a city as to river wharf rights, but remembered that similar questions between private citizens and the Government had been decided in favor of the latter and he believed the Government would win if its authority in this matter were contested by the city.

Asked what effect the extension of the high levee to the outer wharf line would have on the current of the river, the Government engineer answered that it would depend, in part, on other factors. The natural bend of the river in front of St. Louis tended to keep the current on the east side and the shallowness on the west side near the foot of Clinton street might be increased if the high shore line were pushed further out.

How to Deepen Channel. If the shore on the east side were pushed at the same time, the channel would be narrowed and deepened. In times of high water a narrowing of the channel would add to the height of the flood and increase the damage to property.

The river was three feet higher in St. Louis in 1893, he said, than in 1888, although the volume of water was no greater, the extra three feet being due to the railway embankments and dikes on the east side. Those improvements saved property in East St. Louis, but increased the damage in St. Louis.

The stand taken by the Government engineers in this matter was not expected by the Municipal Bridge and Terminal Commission. The city has always claimed, and still claims, the right to build on or lease for private use any portion of the wharf within the outer harbor line (which is based on the low-water line of 1893) established by both the Federal Government and the city of St. Louis by the War Department in September, 1903, on the recommendation of the United States engineers stationed here and by the city in Ordinance 6400,

HOW PISTOL IN TOOL BOX EXPLODED GIANT POWDER BY WHICH TWO MINERS WERE KILLED

approved in October, 1903.

City's Law on Wharf.

Although this ordinance does not expressly permit the use of the wharf between the inner and outer harbor lines for private purposes, that permission is implied in a paragraph making it a misdemeanor for anyone to build a dike, trestle, elevator or other structure outside of or beyond the outer harbor line. This paragraph reads:

"Section 4.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall build or extend any dike, trestle, work, elevator or other structure east of the eastern boundary line of the wharf as above established shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $500."

City's Power Never Questioned. In all these years the city's right to establish harbor lines and control the character of the improvements along the river front was never questioned by the Federal Government, so far as can now be learned. The city has leased many portions of the strip between the harbor lines and many of these sites are still used for private purposes.

The Union Sand and Material Co. occupies a large piece of leased ground within the strip north of Ashley street and has a site for its hoisting plant further up the river, both on the tract wanted for the projected union railway yards.

The Terminal Association expects to buy the leases of the sand company and other corporations now occupying the ground covered by Councilman Ewing's wharf bill if it becomes an ordinance. Railway tracks of several roads run along portions of the strip over which the Government claims exclusive jurisdiction, but the War Department is not likely to ask for their removal.

MOTHER'S PLEA
RELEASES SON

Court Sets Charles Sargeant Free Because His Aid Is Needed by Family.

The pleadings of a widowed mother unlocked the doors of the Jail for Charles Sargeant, 2738 Laclede avenue, Friday morning and he walked out free after serving one month of a three months' sentence. Judge Taylor, in the Court of Criminal Correction, commuted Sargeant's sentence.

Mrs. Sargeant, accompanied by a young daughter, appeared in Judge Taylor's courtroom Friday and begged the Judge to release her boy. She said she was dependent upon Charles for her support. Judge Taylor sent for the prisoner and after giving him fatherly advice released him.

Sargeant was convicted with Charles Walker of having impersonated an officer. They "arrested" Frank Lewis and Henry Eastman of 131 Convent street, and took $3 away from them.

Walker is serving time in the Workhouse.

DROVE STOLEN HORSE OVER MAN

Accident Brought Revelation of Theft and Arrest Followed.

As the result of driving over William Miller, 64 years old, of 727 North Ninth street, at Sixteenth and Wash streets, Thursday evening, Lester Gunn, 24, of 1402 Biddle street, in locked up at the Carr Street Police station, charged with stealing a horse and buggy and with careless driving. Fox of 313 Iowa avenue says Gunn is one of three men who drove a horse away from in front of 480 Page boulevard Thursday afternoon. The police allege that after driving over Miller, Gunn whipped the horse and hurried from the scene. Two men who were with Gunn in the buggy jumped out and escaped.

JILTED WOMAN WINS CHILDREN FROM MINISTER

ashamed to say she tempted me and I fell."

There was a note of scorn in the voice of Attorney Crites as he asked: "Did you take her in because of her poverty, or her beauty?"

"O, she was beautiful. I was enraptured," he replied.

"You were a Christian then?"

"Yes, sir."

And do you find anything in the Bible to sanction the putting away of a wife and the taking of another woman?"

"Yes, sir," almost screamed the clergyman. "Yes, the Bible authorizes it. It tells me to put away my wife if she does wrong, and there is no divorce in Italy. Do you expect me always to live without a wife?"

He said that as there was no divorce in Italy it was a common thing for a man who had put away his wife to take another woman. He said that he came to America intending to get a divorce so he could marry Miss Bonduis, but that she was untrue to him.

"False, false!" shouted the beautiful opera singer.

"It is true," retorted the preacher.

"False, false!" she screamed back at him.

It was July 4 in the little town of Salem, and fireworks were cracking and spluttering outside the courtroom, but it was only the children who were amused by them. The men of the town were in the courtroom, stretching their necks to see the beautiful Italian woman, shaken by emotion as she stood up occasionally to denounce her former lover, the clergyman.

"You blame this woman for leading you astray?" asked the lawyer.

"I do, yes, sir," replied the preacher. "Did you ever, in your theological studies, come across the story of Adam, the first man who blamed a woman for his fall?" asked the lawyer. The preacher snapped his fingers at the lawyer and exclaimed, "Bah!"

"Why did you come to America?"

"Because my conduct with this woman and sent me away. I came to get a divorce and get my children in my hand."

She Taught English.

Glendon said that his relations with Miss Brown were purely those of a pastor with a member of his flock. She was a great deal in his house teaching him English.

Miss Brown told the same thing, denying that there was ever a thought of love between her and Glendon. She testified that Miss Bonduis smoked cigarettes and drank whiskey. Miss Bonduis jumped up, pointed her finger at Miss Brown and shrieked: "False, false! ugly, infamous!"

Judge Woodside declared that under the law of the land his morals and of common sense the child born to a woman out of wedlock was hers and the father had no claim upon it. He then awarded the two children to the mother. She will take them to her mother in Venice and will then go upon the stage again.

Court Rate Control Falls.

The F. P. Brockman Grain Co. and other grain companies which sought to restrain the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railroads from increasing their rates on wheat and flour by an injunction in the Federal court, failed.

Judge Dyer of the United States Circuit Court Friday sustained a demurrer to their petition, holding that the matter must be presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The companies complained that the railroads were discriminating against St. Louis.

BRIDGE RITE QUESTION TO BE REOPENED

North End Members of the House Object to Chouteau Avenue.

North End members of the House of Delegates have decided to reopen the question of the location of the Municipal Free Bridge, for which the Chouteau avenue site was selected by joint resolution of the last Municipal Assembly. The Chouteau avenue site was never embodied in an ordinance, and hence can be annulled by the present Assembly.

North St. Louis members are now conspicuous in the House. Among these are Presmeyer of the First Ward, Warner of the Second, Gallagher of the Third, "Boots" Brennan of the Sixth, Frank Weeks of the Seventh, Sam Stannard of the Nineteenth, James T. Brennan of the Twenty-sixth and Vincent McShane of the Twenty-seventh.

In any effort which is made to fix a North End site for the bridge, it will be argued that the War Department not only has not sanctioned the Chouteau avenue site, but has indicated that no site south of Eads Bridge will be acceptable for any except a single span bridge. The sum of $100,000 is not sufficient, it is held, to build a bridge of that type.

The report of Albert T. Perkins, municipal bridge and terminal expert, in favor of the North Market street site on the ground of cheapness, will also be urged.

A North St. Louis member of the House said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that he and his North End colleagues expected to reopen the matter. The Cass avenue site, as well as that at North Market street, has its champions among the North St. Louis delegates.

The Chouteau avenue site was selected by a joint committee of the last Assembly, of which Councilman Lesser was chairman. It was approved by the Assembly March 22.

The attitude of Councilmen with whom the St. Louis delegates have talked is that no site should be ratified by ordinance until the War Department has been consulted and limitations on the choice of sites learned.

ICE "LID" LIFTER ARRESTED

Warrant for C. C. Molla, Who Used Ten Sons.

C. C. Molla, who tilted the ice-wagon "lid" in East St. Louis last Sunday with the aid of his several sons, in defiance of the Drivers' Union, was arrested Friday morning on a warrant sworn out by W. P. Phelps, a rival ice dealer. He gave bond for trial July 9 at 9 a. m. before Judge Byrne.

The "lid" on ice deliveries Sunday was put on by the ice dealers with the aid of the Drivers' Union two weeks ago. Mayor Cook said if they wanted to enforce the "lid" they would have to make complaints against offending dealers and prosecute the cases.

Mr. Molla, who runs several ice wagons and has ten sons, refused to abide by the edict of the dealers and broke the "lid" by placing his sons in charge of the wagons and made the rounds of the city.

SHOOTS MAN DEAD IN FIGHT OVER 75 CENTS

Slayer Waits for Victim in Ambush and Sends Bullet to Heart.

WOUNDS COMPANION

After Eight Shots Are Fired Police Find Dead Body on Sidewalk.

Ignatius Kurilla was shot through the heart by Andy Hunyons in an alley in the rear of Twenty-third street and Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, at 12:30 a. m. Friday as the result of a quarrel over 75 cents. Steve Dubinski, a companion of Kurilla, was shot twice in the abdomen. He is at St. Mary's Hospital and probably will die from his wounds.

Hunyons was arrested by the East St. Louis police at 5 a. m. and locked up. The trouble started at 10:30 p. m., when Hunyons found Kurilla and Dubinski playing cards in a saloon at Twenty-third street and Kansas avenue.

Kurilla and Hunyons had formerly been friends, but had fallen out over 75 cents which Hunyons claimed Kurilla owed him. Hunyons walked into the saloon Thursday night and demanded payment of the 75 cents, and when Kurilla refused, invited him outside to fight.

Waited Outside.

Kurilla and Dubinski paid no attention to Hunyons, who left the saloon a few minutes later. They stayed in the saloon until 11:55 p. m., and then started home, but stopped at a dance hall at Twenty-third street and Gaty avenue. Leaving there half an hour later they started toward Missouri avenue.

As they were passing the alley 100 feet from Missouri avenue, Hunyons, concealed behind a shed, began firing. During the first volley of shots Kurilla fell dead, with a bullet wound through his heart. Dubinski also fell, having been struck in the abdomen with two bullets. Eight shots in all were fired.

Whether they were all fired by Hunyons, or whether he had a companion, the police have not been able to determine.

When the police arrived on the scene half an hour later they found Kurilla's body. Dubinski had tried to crawl to his boarding house at 2335 Kansas avenue, but had fainted from loss of blood.

Evidence to Shooting.

Joseph Southard, a car conductor, who lived at Missouri avenue and Twenty-third street, saw the shooting from a rear window of his home. The police began a search for Hunyons, and at 1:30 a. m. they found him leaving his boarding house at Twenty-third and Kansas streets. Occupants of the house told the police that he went into a room occupied by two other boarders and he used the bed after trying to borrow money enough to get out of town. He was starting to his brother's house to borrow money when he was discovered by Policeman Mulquency.

Hunyons ran toward State street, with the police in pursuit. Policeman Wilkinson joined in the chase, but fell behind.

Hunyons ran into a wire fence near State street, and the policeman, who was upon his heels, also got tangled up in the fence, being knocked senseless by one of the wires. Hunyons made a escape, but was captured several hours later as he was returning to his boarding house. The revolver with which the shooting was done was found under the steps.

Kurilla, the dead man, leaves a wife. Dubinski is unmarried.

Alleged Slayer Identified.

The police took Hunyons to the hospital at noon, where he was identified by Dubinski as the man who did the shooting. Dubinski was in a dying condition when he made the identification, and is not expected to live more than a few hours.

Hunyons admitted to the police that he quarreled with Kurilla and Dubinski, but he accused another man of doing the shooting. He said that after Dubinski and Kurilla left the saloon they chased him with knives, and that later they renewed the attack. The man whom Hunyons says did the shooting has been arrested by the police.

Grimes' Sulky Lost a Wheel.

This Accident, He Says, Prevented His Winning Race and Girl.

Miss Helen Burs' wish that Frank Grimes' horse would cast a shoe on the fourth of July race at Belleville on which she bet her heart, more than came true. Grimes' sulky lost a wheel when it struck with George Burs' sulky, and he was thrown from the race.

Grimes admitted Friday morning that the accident cost him the girl and the race, but he refused to say that he despaired of yet winning the Burs' hand in defiance of parental objection. Miss Burs has closed the incident by appointing her father, George Burs, to state her position, which is that Mr. Grimes is not being considered in the man race for her heart.

Harry: Were you faithful the first time you called on a girl?

Frank: Yes, but her father helped me out.

BEAUTIES WANTED; 100 GIRLS APPLY

Fifty of Those Who Would Teach in County Send Pictures as Proof.

J. Willis Andrae, superintendent of the public schools of St. Louis County, has received 100 applications for positions as school teachers from pretty girls in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. Three weeks ago Prof. Andrae complained, through the Post-Dispatch, that there was a shortage of pretty girl school teachers in St. Louis County, and that he would be delighted to receive applications at his office in Clayton.

Of the 100 applications that have reached the superintendent, 50 of the applicants have sent their photographs. Mr. Andrae confesses that he has never before seen such a collection of photographs of beautiful girls. Almost all of them, he says, would win prizes in a beauty contest. Others who applied for the positions but did not send photographs were so self-satisfied that they offered to visit Clayton for personal inspection by the superintendent.

Prof. Andrae believes that a beautiful teacher is more pleasant for the pupils to look upon and that they will learn faster under her instruction. A wry face and a bad temper, he thinks, are poor qualifications for teachers. There has been such a scarcity of teachers in St. Louis County that many schools paying from $50 to $75 a month for 10-month terms have not had a single suitable application.

For such of the teachers as seem competent Mr. Andrae has written suggesting that they apply for certain schools. In writing to the superintendent the teachers did not dwell on their good looks, but simply enclosed a photograph, which they said would be a proof of their qualifications.

Among the writers was a Vassar graduate of such exceptional beauty that Prof. Andrae hastened to reply to her letter. The names of the applicants are, for the present, a secret that Mr. Andrae will not disclose. He has shown the pictures of some of the girls to the directors of the schools, and the St. Louis County farmers who serve in this capacity have become as anxious as Prof. Andrae to get more beautiful teachers in the county.

KILLS 1, FATALLY WOUNDS 2 OTHERS

During Good-Natured Scuffle Illinois Man Suddenly Begins Shooting Friends.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. RUDDHOUSE, Ill., July 5.—During the celebration here yesterday Orbin Lake shot and instantly killed Albert Rutherford of Whitehall, Ill., and fatally wounded Elmer Garrison and Charles Armstrong. From evidence given to the coroner the shooting was entirely unprovoked, the four being engaged in a good-natured scuffle, when Lake suddenly drew a revolver and began firing. The first shot struck Rutherford just above the left eye, and as he fell the second struck him on the left shoulder. Lake then turned on Garrison and shot him in the neck, the bullet ranging down through the left lung. Armstrong tried to interfere and was shot through the right arm and side. Neither of the two wounded men is expected to live. Lake fled into the country and escaped. He is being pursued.

SEVEN HURT IN ROLL OF AUTO DOWN A BANK

Limousine Car Plunges 50 Feet, Lodging Against Oak Tree.

LEAVES ROAD AT TURN

Brakes Fail to Work on Curve at the Chain of Rocks.

PINNED IN TONNEAU

Four Are Prisoners Until Companions Free Them With Knife.

Mrs. John H. Bledsoe of 5151 Delmar boulevard and Silas C. Bledsoe of Louisville, Ky., most seriously injured of seven persons who occupied a Louisville automobile, wrecked Thursday near the Chain of Rocks, were recovering Friday. Mrs. Silas C. Bledsoe said that their injuries were principally bruises, although the doctors are not certain that internal injuries will not develop in Mr. Bledsoe. They are at the home of Mr. John H. Bledsoe, 5151 Delmar boulevard.

Silas Bledsoe, who is 56 years old, and the father of John H. Bledsoe, was pinned beneath the heavy machine as it rolled over and over down the embankment. He was riding on the front seat beside his son and William Fisher of 2704 1/2 North Spring avenue, whose head was cut.

Mrs. John H. Bledsoe was riding in the tonneau with Mrs. William Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Mont Nevin of Theodora avenue. Her companions were merely cut by glass and bruised. Mrs. Bledsoe's face was cut and her eyes blackened.

The 14 members of the two parties had been spending the day at Chain of Rocks Park. They had dinner on the grass and about 7 o'clock started home. In the first automobile were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Patterson of 423 Olive street, Mrs. S. C. Bledsoe, 7-year-old Margaret Bledsoe, daughter of John H. Bledsoe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Terry of 327 West Belle place and D. L. Lohr of 4125 Washington boulevard.

Car Speeding Down Hill. Near the end of the Chain of Rocks, where the road narrows until it is no wider than a sidewalk, there are two sharp turns on a steep grade. A sharp descent marks the first, while the second is considered the most hazardous place of roadway for automobiles in the State. It overlooks a steep embankment 290 feet high. It was here that the accident occurred.

The first machine had passed both turns. The second was speeding down the hill toward the second turn. The first intimation of danger came from John H. Bledsoe, who was driving. As the machine gained speed on the decline he tugged at the brakes vainly and shouted: "The brakes won't work." In another instant the car went over the embankment.

S. C. Bledsoe leaped from the front seat directly into the path of the falling machine and he was bruised as it passed over him. As it rolled completely over, Fisher and the younger Bledsoe were splattered about, but were not badly hurt and from where they lay they watched the car roll down until it brought up against the oak tree.

Machine Rolled 50 Feet. After its plunge from the roadway the machine rolled 50 feet down the decline. At the end of its roll only Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. John H. Bledsoe were left in the car.

Failure of the brakes at a critical moment caused the catastrophe, which was witnessed by Mrs. S. C. Bledsoe and six others who were in an automobile a few feet ahead of the one which went over the embankment. J. H. Bledsoe and Fisher clambered down the hill to the rescue. Bledsoe slashed open the canvas roof of the tonneau and released the occupants. With the aid of persons from the other auto Bledsoe and Fisher carried the seriously injured.

John H. Bledsoe, who was driving, said he had made the trip down the hill a number of times before.

"The turn is a very difficult one," he said, "and the roadway is very narrow. We had spoken of the danger at the turn coming out. We were following the other machine and were running about eight miles an hour. I think. When the brakes failed to work I saw that we could never make the curve and I shouted out, 'We are going over.'"

"None of us had time to get out. The machine went over the edge, dropped six feet and rolled, I judge, about forty feet, turning over completely twice. Father fell out and the machine went over him. Fisher and I were thrown out before it struck the tree and stopped."

"I hit Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and my wife when we went back to where my father and I have driven automobiles before, and if the brakes had worked I would have avoided the accident."

S. C. Bledsoe is a retired merchant of Louisville. For the past week he and his wife have been visiting his son, John H. Bledsoe.

The machine was built by John H. Bledsoe, who is in the automobile business with W. J. Patterson.

SWANGER SEES VICTORY AHEAD

Secretary of State Thinks Republicans Will Carry Missouri Easily.

With factional differences buried, Secretary of State Swanger, who is at the Jefferson Hotel, sees victory ahead for the Republican Party of Missouri. He insists that the Republicans are going to carry the State Legislature, elect all their nominees for State offices and land Attorney-General Hadley in the Governor's chair.

At the same time Mr. Swanger shows some fear that factional jealousies may crop out and he intimated that if the Kerns and Niedringhaus forces clash again the Republican organization may be seriously embarrassed.

Mr. Swanger said he didn't know whether Kerns and Niedringhaus had senatorial aspirations, but he would not be surprised if either or both of them entered the race next year.

"It is your understanding that because of Col. Kerns' heavy interest in the St. Louis Times, his friends are expecting the newspaper to launch his senatorial candidacy?" was asked.

"I have no information of Col. Kerns' plans, but I trust he and his newspaper interests will work for the success of the Republican party," said Mr. Swanger. "From apparently reliable sources I have heard that Col. Kerns holds a heavy, but not the controlling interest in the St. Louis Times. I understand that he invested $100,000 in that property."

"How about a presidential candidacy?"

"Well, the party seems to have lots of excellent timber. It looks as if Secretary Taft has the lead at this time. The party is in splendid shape nationally and no matter who the Democrats electing our nominee."

Mr. Swanger was accompanied to St. Louis by Bank Examiners Burkhardt and Cook.

SWALLOWED PIN ON WEDDING DAY

Iowa Bride Came Near Spoiling Plans for Marriage Ceremony.

OTTUMWA, Mo., July 5.—Because Miss Eva Ballard of 228 North Moore street, was possessed of the eternal feminine habit of holding pins in her mouth, a wedding verged dangerously near a tragedy, but culminated happily in her marriage to Arthur Guyle at the home for which it was announced.

Surrounded by an admiring group of her closest friends, she was displaying her wedding gifts. In the midst of exclamations of delight and envy a new gift arrived. The package was daintily bound with white paper but inside fastened more securely the wrappings, was a pin. The bride placed the pin in her mouth while she unfasted the remainder of the wrappings. A few moments later in the midst of her excitement and screams of delight over the gift, her friends were startled by a gasping cry of horror from the bride.

The pin lay painfully lodged in her throat. A physician was at once summoned and an X-ray photograph taken upon them that he wanted something to lean upon.

ORCHARD AGAIN TO TAKE THE STAND

Star Witness in Haywood Trial to Contradict Statements of Denver People.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BOISE, Idaho, July 5.—There is an air of mystery about the character of the evidence which the prosecution will introduce in rebuttal in the Haywood trial.

K. C. Sterling, the detective who represented the mine owners of Cripple Creek and who was connected with Orchard, is here, but attorneys for the defense assert he will not dare take the stand. He is charged with making overtures to the defense and accepting a large sum of money for expenses. If he goes on the stand he may testify that an attempt was made to bribe him.

Though "Steve" Adams is said to be thoroughly in accord with Haywood, there is a group that he may take the stand and corroborate Orchard. Darrow and Richardson are in daily conference with Adams and declare that he will never appear as a witness against Haywood. The family associations of the prisoners have also given rise to comment. Mrs. Haywood, Mrs. Pettibone and Mrs. Adams are not expected to appear on the stand.

Mrs. Adams and her sister do not speak to or associate with them. It is quite probable Orchard will again take the stand. He will contradict the statements of Denver witnesses that he was introduced to them by Gratias, the detective, who was present at the Belleville union. The Bradley depositions are not expected until Saturday morning.

There are a few witnesses left and the court may insist that Haywood or Meyer be put on the stand this afternoon. The State expects to finish the rebuttal in three days, and then four days will be taken up in argument.

Darrow and Richardson have issued the following statement: "Prof. Hugo Münsterberg's opinion that Orchard is the confessed assassin is telling the truth, is merely a testimony. The State expects to finish the rebuttal in three days, and then four days will be taken up in argument."

Mr. Swanger was accompanied to St. Louis by Bank Examiners Burkhardt and Cook.

DEATH CLAIMS MAN WHO HID ILLNESS FROM PARENTS

Joseph L. Schuler Jr. Misled Physician Because He Didn't Want Others to Worry.

The funeral of Joseph L. Schuler Jr. will take place at 2 p. m. Sunday from the family residence, 1026 Clark avenue. Services will be held in the old Cathedral, Second and Walnut streets, and the burial will be in St. Peter and Paul's cemetery.

Many friends mourn the death of "Young Joe" Schuler, as he was familiarly known, to distinguish him from his father, who is a leader in Fifth Ward politics.

For two years he suffered from lung trouble. In order to allay fear he deceived his parents, making them believe he was troubled with a stomach illness. He even deceived a prominent physician.

Shortly before 3:30 p. m. Thursday "Young Joe" made arrangements for death. He straightened himself out in bed and rolled his hands upon his breast. His mother, who was among those at his bedside, realized that death was near and hurried from the room. Her son called her back.

"I was only fooling," he said. "I feel better now."

The words had barely escaped his lips when he breathed his last.

A week ago he told his family that if he could only get a little exercise he would improve. He asked for a baby buggy to wheel. His relatives thought the request unusual until it dawned upon them that he wanted something to lean upon.

"Young Joe" was 25 years old, the eldest of three sons.

GEORGIA COLONELS ARE IN DEEP GRIEF JUST NOW

Measure May Be Passed by Legislature Which Will Make Whiskey as Expensive as Champagne and Harder to Get.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ATLANTA, July 5.—A bill is pending in the Legislature here which, should it pass, and the most skeptical believe it will, will be a sad blow for the most picturesque figure of the old South—the Georgia Colonel. This bill would make the commonest variety of rye as expensive as champagne, and as embarrassing to procure as a marriage license.

The reform Legislature has met. The first day it sat it considered 300 bills, and not one spared the corporations. Among them was a prohibition bill. It is a double-barreled act. One section seeks to drive the sale of liquor from the State, and the other seeks to put obstacles in the way of its shipment here. The latter section proposes to make the consumer take his shipment to the clerk of the Superior Court, have it stamped, and pay a tax of 50 cents a pint. This would make rye whiskey cost nearly $10 a gallon.

There is a probability that the bill will pass. The colonels have lost hope for there are 45 counties in this State and less than twenty are wet. Restrictions have been growing tighter and tighter about the liquor traffic in Atlanta. On July 1 the dealer began to pay a license of $200. Saloons close at 10 o'clock at night, and only the large hotels sell on Sunday. Beer is served in innocent tourist, Scotch highballs in coffee cups, and mint juleps in ice tea glasses.

Gov. Hoke Smith, the reform candidate, says he will sign the prohibition bill if it passes the Legislature. He is a prohibitionist, president. There is considerable disgust among the colonels.

MISS SUTTON WINS THE CUP

Is Again Champion Woman Tennis Player of the World, Beating English Holder.

LONDON, July 5.—In the all-England tennis championships ladies' singles at Wimbledon this afternoon, Miss Sutton of California, defeated Mrs. Chambers in the championship round. Miss Sutton won back the title of world's champion, of which she was deprived last year by Mrs. Chambers, then Miss Douglass.

The American won easily by 2-0. The score was 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Sutton received a remarkable ovation from the crowds in the stands. The hand struck up "See the Conqueror Rides," the committee presented the American girl with a huge bouquet of flowers and there were loud calls for a speech. Miss Sutton, however, was overcome by the warmth with which her victory was greeted and was only able to say:

"I have won twice and I am going to try to win a third time."

Heart in Wrong Place. Fred: So she turned you down, eh? Joe: Yes. I made the mistake of confessing that my heart was in my mouth when I proposed.

Fred: What had that to do with it? Joe: Oh, she said she couldn't think of marrying a man whose heart wasn't in the right place.

Son a King Before Parent. King Frederick of Denmark presents the curious spectacle of a father who has become a king at a later date than his own son. When King Haakon of Norway was lately at Copenhagen, King Frederick is said to have asked him: "How do you like being King?" "I will rather ask you," replied Haakon, "have you been King longer than you have?" Frederick, his father, did not succeed to the throne of Denmark until Jan. 20, 1906, on the death of King Christian.

ROCKEFELLER ON WAY TO CHICAGO TO TAKE STAND

Standard Oil Co. President Will Reach That City Tonight.

HE INVITED SERVICE

Telephoned to Marshal to Come to His House With Summons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 5.—John D. Rockefeller left here last night for Chicago, to appear on Saturday as a witness in the Standard Oil Co. inquiry in the Federal Court. E. Parmelee Prentice, his son-in-law, at whose home he was staying, took him in an automobile to the Boston & Albany State Line Station, where the west-bound express was flagged. Mr. Rockefeller will reach Chicago this evening.

It was learned today that the service Wednesday of the summons on Mr. Rockefeller was not the result of cleverness on the part of United States Marshal Frank; that the Marshal was telephoned by the oil magnate to come and serve the papers.

After the morning call of Marshals Ruhl and Frink, when Mr. Prentice successfully bluffed the officers, there was a consultation at the Prentice home. As a result, long-distance telephone conferences were held with the Standard Oil attorneys in New York. They advised Mr. Rockefeller to accept service Wednesday of the summons on Mr. Rockefeller was not the result of cleverness on the part of United States Marshal Frank; that the Marshal was telephoned by the oil magnate to come and serve the papers.

ROCKEFELLER WILL BE GUARDED WHILE IN CHICAGO (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, July 5.—John D. Rockefeller will be in Chicago this afternoon or early tomorrow morning, to appear as a witness before Judge Landis in the Federal Court in the cases in which the Standard Oil Co. is accused of receiving rebates from the Chicago & Alton Railroad.

Mr. Rockefeller will be the guest of his son-in-law, Harold F. McCormick at Bellevue place and Lake Shore Drive. He will be under the protection of the United States court. Just as it is usual for the Standard Oil Co. to be guarded by Judge Landis' court. While Mr. Rockefeller is on his way to Chicago, while he is here and while he is returning to his home, he may not be molested or approached by process servers from State courts where his presence as a witness may be desired.

This is a rule which obtains even with the humblest witness summoned by the United States court. Just as it protects the poorest, it will protect Mr. Rockefeller.

Salt and Fresh Water in Well. A remarkable well has been found by a representative of the United States Geological Survey near New Burlington, O. It is fitted with two pumps, one furnishing fresh water and the other, having such a high amount of mineral salts that it is almost brine.

Two water-bearing beds confined between layers of limestone occur at this point, the upper carrying fresh water and the lower salt. The pipe of the fresh water pump is but 16 feet long; that of the salt water pump is 35 feet.

The brine, being heavier than the fresh water, does not mix with it, but remains at the bottom of the well, and the longer pipe consequently draws only the salty water.

WOMAN WHOSE SHROUD IS HER WEDDING GOWN

Mrs. MARY J. CARNEY
BRIDAL ROBE HER SHROUD

Attorney Carney's Wedding Usurper Wife's Pallbearers.

Dressed in her bridal robes and with young men who were ushers at her wedding as pallbearers, Mrs. Mary J. Carney, wife of Attorney John M. Carney, will be buried Saturday morning from St. Alphonsus (Rock) Church, where she was married last Thanksgiving day.

Rev. Father P. J. Carney, brother of Attorney Carney, will celebrate the mass, assisted by Rev. Father Timothy Dempsey as deacon, Father Francis O'Connor as subdeacon and Father Byrne of the Redemptionist Order as master of ceremonies. The burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Carney died at the home of her father, Dr. William Reilly, 347 Finney avenue, Wednesday night. She had been ill only three days. Peritonitis caused her death.

THIEVES LEAVE TRAIL OF EMPTY POCKETBOOKS

Thirty Purses Picked Up Along Creve Coeur Trolley Line.

TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED

Pursued From Car After One Passenger Saw Another Robbed.

Thirty torn and empty pocketbooks, found scattered along the Creve Coeur electric line near its western end, will be held as evidence against Ed Kelly and John McGuire, held in the Clayton Jail on charges of wholesale pocket picking in Thursday night's raids.

Roland Wehrheim of 214 Victor street and Deputy Sheriff Frase of Clayton captured the two after leaping from a car and pursuing them a short distance Thursday night.

Both jerked away from their captors in the crowded open car and escaped, one by making his way to the rear platform, the other by climbing over the wire railing at the side. Wehrheim and Frase, with James Clark of 148, Lo- coust street, pursued them, captured both and, holding the next car, took them to Clayton.

Wehrheim and Clark were two of those robbed, losing $5 and $12 respectively. They noticed their loss at about the same time, soon after both cars had left the pursuers to pay their fares.

ADKINS WANTS WIFE BEATERS SENT TO THE CITY GARBAGE PILE TO WORK

Water Commissioner Wants a Public Incinerator as Work-house Annex.

HAS FIRE SCHEME, TOO

Wants to Do Away With the Horses and Put in Auto-Trucks.

IMPUDENT INTERVIEWS NO. 4.

I called up Main 500 (of course it's Main when you want the Water Commissioner) and asked for Mr. Adkins. He didn't seem to understand when I told him who I was, but he didn't give me time to repeat.

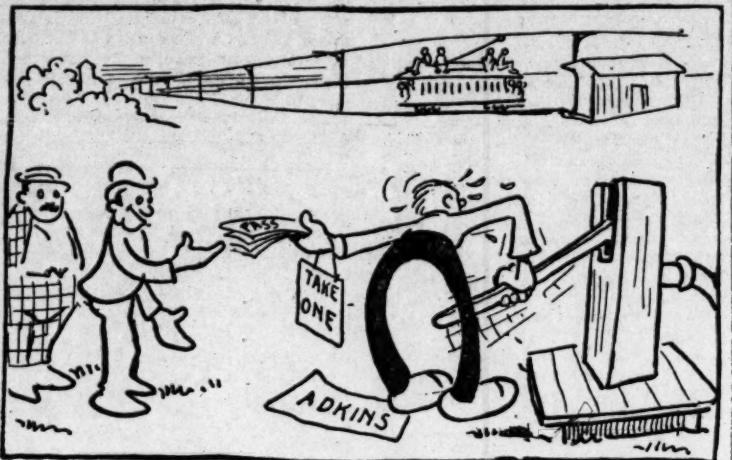

"Sorry," he said, "but I haven't any more passes for this week. I've fixed up an orphan asylum for tomorrow, and a young ladies' boarding school for day after, and Saturday the Loyal League of the Lemon lodge is going, and I don't think it would be any use to try for Sunday either."

"Is this the Water Commissioner or the press agent of East End Flights?" I asked.

"This is the Water Commissioner, Superintendent of the Chain of Rocks Electric Railroad and living martyr of municipal ownership. Didn't I understand you to say you wanted some passes to the Chain?" he replied.

Surprise for Commissioner.

"What's that? You wouldn't go to the Chain of Rocks if I'd build you a bungalow there? And you haven't any friend you want me to give a job to? No? Just want to ask me a question, you say? Well, come right up!" While waiting for the City Hall elevator to go up, I forgot the question I had meant to ask. The only one I could think of when I found Mr. Adkins in his office a few minutes later was: "Who put the lights on the water tower?"

"I did know that," said the Commissioner, "but I've forgotten. What I am anxious to find out is who put the public next to me as grand pass dispenser for a free trolley line."

"Here I am provided with two passenger cars and a tool cart, and am expected to haul all the people the United Railways can carry to Baden, besides conveying our own men back and forth."

Always Carries Passes.

"I don't dare to venture on the street without a book of passes in my pocket, and I'm stopped so often by requests for them that I can never tell when I'm going to get anywhere that I'm headed for. About the time I get to sleep at night, my phone rings, and somebody asks me to mail him a couple of tickets."

"While I was eating lunch today, the waiter told me he was going to have to leave. He would like to go up to the Chain. If I could, etc., etc., of course."

"If Mr. Hadley will just include our little railroad in the next anti-pass rule he makes, I may get time to worry the other members of the Board of Public Works. We can pump water for a million getting St. Louis ready for the million people we are going to have."

"Mr. Wrenner would be tickled to hear you say that," I commented. "The difference between the Million Club and the Water Department," said Mr. Adkins, "is that they don't have to handle the million people until they get here. We can pump water for a million right now. By the time we have them, if we didn't keep ahead that way we would find ourselves behind one of these days."

Window Washer Nuisance.

"Now there are some things in St. Louis that I don't believe a million people will stand for—not a million of the kind of people we want. For instance, when you walk down Olive street you never can tell when a window washer is going to bump your diaphragm with the end of his stick, then turn around and spill a pail of water over your feet while apologizing."

"Or if you go to work any time before 9 a. m. you get dust swept into your lungs from every other store you pass. What does our war on tuberculosis amount to while we let that go on?"

"There ought to be no sweeping out of stores into the street at any hour, and the washing of windows should be limited to the hours when the fewest persons are on the sidewalks. That is partly a job for the police and partly for our board. The ashes and garbage questions aren't out of the way yet, and I expect to see a municipal incinerator."

"When we get the incinerator, which would give us power enough to light the part of town it was located in, why not make it a branch of the Work-house? When a Police Judge wants to make an example of a wife-beater, let him send him to the garbage pile, instead of the rock pile. They've got used to the rocks."

Do Away With Horses.

"If another one of my schemes ever works out you'll see five engines and five horses done away with in the downtown district, and high water, steam engines and automobile trucks and horse carts in place of them."

"I'm not knocking St. Louis as it is now, though. I've just been up in Canada, and you know that's the kind of a country that makes you appreciate home."

"A waiter in a hotel in Toronto brought me the wrong order and I told him so. 'That's what you ordered,' said he. 'I know what I ordered,' said I. 'I know what you ordered,' said he, 'that's what I'm here for.' 'I made a few remarks which I considered appropriate, and he moved off and said, 'Well, well, well. When you get in a better humor I'll return and wait on you.' So I had to wait on him. And he expected a tip on top of all that!"

W. J. CO. HIRES OPERATORS TO CHECK STRIKE

Non-Union Men Offered $4 a Day With Board and Transportation Free.

MONDAY CRUCIAL DAY

Officials of Company and Union Trying to Prevent Men Going Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 5.—While President Clowry of the Western Union Telegraph Co. is working to avert a national strike of the operators by consenting to the terms of a new agreement with a view to arbitration, he does not intend to be caught napping. For the purpose of having nonunion telegraphers on hand in the event of a strike in Chicago or St. Louis, the Western Union officials advertised for telegraphers to "receive $4 a day with board and transportation free" to come to 227 Fulton street, Brooklyn. The members of Local No. 16 of the Telegraphers' Union read the advertisement and in order to see what it was all about went to the Brooklyn establishment under the pretense of seeking employment. The man in charge said a strike was expected Monday, and he was greatly elated when 50 of the union men gave their names and addresses, to be sent for when their services would be needed.

"Mum's the word," said the man who did the employing. "We want to get out of New York without anyone knowing of it." "All right," replied the men, "we won't say a word." But they did. They reported all that took place to the chairman of the Executive Committee, who went to the Brooklyn headquarters. It happened that the chairman of the union was a man who runs a saloon on the ground floor and who conducts a strictly union resort.

When the proprietor's attention was called to the presence of an agent employing nonunion telegraphers, the saloon keeper got busy and the man was fired out of the building. The employment office has been moved to Broadway.

COMMISSIONER NEILL IN CHICAGO WORKING FOR PEACE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Members of the National Executive Committee of the Telegraphers' Union, who are now gathering in Chicago, today put the issue of the strike before the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies squarely up to the employers by a statement that no settlement of the trouble could come without recognition of the union.

The announcement came in the form of an interview in which the flat-footed declaration was made that the letter of President Clowry of the Western Union would no longer be a factor and that hereafter all negotiations would have to be transacted through the Executive Committee of the union. Commissioner Charles P. Neill has arrived here and members of the Executive Committee of the union are expected by night. Commissioner Neill arrived in the city last night and settled down to business by meeting the members of the Executive Board of the union and prominent local officials. The union side was presented and Mr. Neill was told about the alleged discrimination and wage troubles. The recent discharge of operator W. W. Main by the Western Union company for alleged insubordination was taken up for discussion.

Facing Commissioner Neill is a situation which gives him scant encouragement. The companies say that union committees acting under and for the union will be received. On the other side, the employees insist that the union committees be received and their union be given recognition. They declare they will treat with representatives of the two telegraph companies upon no other basis.

Members of local union No. 1 of Chicago will submit their grievances to Commissioner Neill today. He in turn will attempt to have the companies consider the demands made by the men. The mediation offered at this time is concerning the local situation, and is not intended to apply to the entire question of the settlement of the Oakland and San Francisco strikes. It is intended to bring about peace in the Western Union and Postal Telegraph strikes, and is meant to stop any spread of the strike to other Western cities.

General Secretary Russell would not say what course the union would take in the present negotiations, neither would he consent to be quoted upon any question involved in the mediation.

FAMILY OF WOMEN RUNS BIG THEATER

Success of Young Actress Threatens to Disrupt Successful Institution.

The sudden brightening, in the dramatic heavens, of Cecil Spooner as a Broadway star may partly disrupt a family institution which has for some time been famous in the city of Brooklyn as a stock company managed entirely by a family of women, who have also been among its leading actors.

Miss Spooner's stellar appearance was made during the season just closing, in "The Girl Raffles," in which part she has been seen in this city. Previous to that she was a regular working member of the Spooner Stock Company. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Gibbs Spooner, her sister, Edna May, and herself have been in the profession since infancy, says the Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Spooner is the widow of an actor and is now and for the past seven years has been the active manager of her company, reading carefully all the plays submitted to her, and producing some of them as easily as eight new ones in one season. She is the only woman member of the Theatrical Managers' Association; president of the Brooklyn Chapter of the Actors' Church Alliance, and, despite her busy professional life, is greatly interested in political, social and charitable organizations.

The Bijou Theater in Brooklyn, which is used by the Spooners, has the third largest capacity in Greater New York and is always well patronized at every performance, including three matinees each week. Except under unusual conditions, the bill is changed every week, so that both mother and daughter are pretty constantly busy. Only the best class of plays are given, and the theater is regarded by its patrons and by other observers as a sort of educational institution. Both of the young women play emotional parts.

Woman Hit by Bullet. Mrs. Elizabeth Knaus, 32 years old, 401 North Florissant avenue, was seriously wounded yesterday while sitting in front of her home, by a stray bullet which hit her in the shoulder. The bullet narrowly missed striking Mrs. Knaus' baby. Mrs. Knaus was taken to the City Hospital.

FLEET WILL GO TO PACIFIC, SAYS THE PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Admits Indirectly Warships Will Sail From Atlantic.

METCALF TALKS FREELY

Avers Battleships Will Be Seen in San Francisco Harbor Soon.

By Lensed Wire From The New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 5.—After positively denying there was any purpose to send battleships of the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific Coast, President Roosevelt, through his private secretary, Mr. Loeb, has admitted indirectly the battleships will go to the Pacific. Only last Tuesday the President said through his private secretary:

"I have no idea where or how the story originated that battleships of the Atlantic fleet are going to the Pacific. You can say the President has not even considered the advisability of sending any ships to the Pacific. That is all there is to be said at this time."

The President, through Mr. Loeb, now says:

"The cruise (of the battleships) may possibly be to the Pacific, but might possibly be only to the Mediterranean or the South Atlantic. It may possibly take place next winter, but on the other hand, it may not be convenient to arrange it until later."

Will Sail in the Fall.

Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, in an interview in Oakland, Cal., said many of the largest battleships of the Atlantic fleet will be seen in San Francisco harbor next fall. The Secretary of the Navy explained why the battleships would go to the Pacific and not "to the Mediterranean or South Atlantic." He said:

"I might have stated before leaving Washington exactly what I am saying now. But I thought that, as the news concerned the people of the Pacific Coast, today would be an appropriate time to announce the plans. It is the policy of the Navy Department to keep the fleet in American waters as much as possible. It is also our policy to keep together as large a number of battleships as possible. We might as well spend the money in American ports as abroad. In the past we have sent squadrons to various European ports, with less advantage than by keeping them at home."

Dispatches from Washington on Wednesday informed officers and men at the Brooklyn Navy Yard that Rear Admiral Evans had taken train for New York that afternoon, and everything was made ready on board his flagship—the Connecticut—to receive him. But he did not put in an appearance at the navy yard Wednesday night, although he arrived here. It was said at the navy yard today that he is expected on Monday.

Admiral Evans was met at the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City by his chief of staff, Capt. Royal R. Ingersoll. It is said, and came over on a Twenty-third street ferryboat, going to a small hotel in the heart of the city, where he did not register. He arrived at 7 o'clock and went immediately to his room, where he was joined soon by several naval men.

Evans' Mysterious Movements.

It was 2 o'clock in the morning before the Admiral returned, and during the evening a number of dispatches, several from Washington, arrived. Before retiring he left word with the clerk to have a carriage waiting for him at a quarter past nine in the morning. The Admiral hurried through his breakfast and was driven to the Twenty-third street ferry where he is said to have taken the boat at 9:35, which carries passengers for a Washington train.

It was announced Wednesday that Rear Admiral Evans had been directed to take charge of outfitting and overhauling the vessels of the Atlantic fleet for a cruise to the Pacific. The war vessels might be got ready for the 10,000-mile cruise to Cape Horn and the Pacific coast in 30 days. It is recognized, however, that the dry dock and repair shops of the coast are not equipped for the work of overhauling, as are the docks and shops here, hence the Navy Department desires that every battleship, cruiser and transport shall be in first-class condition before the long cruise is undertaken. The time set for sailing is Oct. 1.

Rear Admiral Evans has now under his command 21 fighting ships. He has the battleships Connecticut, Maine, Missouri, Kentucky, Kearsarge, Alabama, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa, and the armored cruisers West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Maryland and Brooklyn.

H. C. McCord Offers Reward for Information of Frank Ghariz and His Daughter.

H. C. McCord of Baltimore, Md., and El Paso, Tex., will return to St. Louis next Friday to hunt for Frank Ghariz, and his daughter, Helen, aged 16, heirs to $35,000 left by Count J. H. Ghariz of Epslein, Germany. Ghariz and McCord were intimate friends when they were connected with the St. Louis Street Department, 11 years ago, as civil engineers. McCord was appointed guardian for Helen Ghariz.

McCord was at the Laclede Hotel Thursday for a few hours and offered $300 reward for information about his old friend and his ward. He came from El Paso, Tex., and is on his way to visit his mother in Baltimore. While here he saw Fred Wetrick, a Street Department attaché, and asked him for information of Ghariz. Wetrick knew nothing of him, but from others McCord heard that Ghariz' wife lived in St. Louis and was employed in a department store. He is also said to have a brother in the army.

McCord has not heard from Ghariz or his daughter since they departed in St. Louis 11 years ago. In the meantime McCord says he has made a fortune in grain speculation and in railroad contracts.

CURRENT SWEEP TWO TO SAFETY

Canoeists Upset, but Drifted With Boat to an Island.

Abraham B. Frey, a law student of 467 Page boulevard, and Lester A. Heyman, a manufacturers' agent of 5145 Page boulevard, were thrown into the swift current of the Meramec River a half mile west of Valley Park, at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, when their light canoe struck a snag.

Frey was pitched head foremost over the front of the canoe into the swirling waters of the rapids, which they were trying to "shoot," while Heyman, who was in the back of the canoe, was dumped behind it. The water is about twenty feet deep at the point where the canoe capsized and either bank is 50 feet away.

The men grasped the end of the overturned canoe. After reaching the small island, the young men baled the water out of their canoe and paddled to shore.

DUTIES OF NEUTRAL POWERS DISCUSSED AT THE HAGUE

Declaration of War and Opening of Hostilities Subject of Conference.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

THE HAGUE, July 5.—The sub-committee of the Peace Conference on the rights and duties of neutral powers in times of war, etc., met today. M. Nelidoff, president of the Conference, who had recovered from his indisposition, was present.

The French proposition providing that there shall be a declaration of war before the opening of hostilities and the amendment of The Netherlands establishing a delay of 24 hours between a declaration of war and the opening of hostilities were discussed at length. The military delegates of The Netherlands and France made speeches explaining their respective propositions.

The Russian military delegate supported the French proposition and Baron Marschall von Bieberstein (German) rose and said:

"Germany accepts in its entirety the French proposition, which she considers conformable with the modern progress of warfare."

WOUNDED AS HE ENTERED WINDOW

Occupants of Room Took Landlord for Burglar and Fired Several Times.

Joseph D. Henry of 1528 Olive street, shot twice while entering a room temporarily occupied by strangers in a house he owns at 2324 Olive street, is said to be dying at the City Hospital. One of the bullets entered his abdomen and another his chest. George Elmer of Salem, Mo., who fired them, thought Henry a burglar. Elmer is under arrest at the Central District Police Station.

Mrs. D. F. Hall rents the house from Henry and sublets rooms. That occupied by Elmer and his wife is at the rear.

Henry said Friday that he had been drinking Thursday night and did not feel like going all the way home. He decided to spend the night in a room of the house rented by Mrs. Hall. As he started to climb through an open window someone spoke to him from within.

SUPREME COURT WILL SOON BE IN ITS NEW BUILDING

Last Session in the Old Structure Will Begin July 13.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—The Missouri Supreme Court meets July 13 for its last session in the old Supreme Court building. The October term of the court will be held in the new Supreme Court building, which will have been completed by that time.

The court will go into the new building with a clean docket. The court usually adjourns before July 4 for the summer vacation, but this time it does not do this in order to pass on all motions resultant from the last lot of opinions handed down. It recently handed down a large number of opinions and as yet persons against whom the decisions are rendered have ten days within which to file motions for new trial the court adjourned until July 13 that this may be done.

When the court begins its sessions in the new building the members will do judicial robes like those of the United States Supreme Court.

Many Robbed of Carfare.

Several complaints were received by telephone Friday at the Sheriff's office in Clayton from persons who said their pockets were picked on the Creve Coeur line. Some did not have carfare left to pay the additional fares required on the east end of the line and on the city line. They carried on the promise to send their fares by mail, or were paid for by other passengers.

PAYS $6 REWARD FOR $5 LOST

School Teacher Recovers Pocket-book and Railroad Ticket.

Gratefulness personified was Miss Annie Brown, a school teacher of Chester, Ill., yesterday, when her pocket-book, containing $5 and a railroad ticket to Portland, Ore., which she had lost at Union Station, was returned to her. Not satisfied with rewarding the finder with $6, she even wished to force a like amount upon Samuel Hewlett, manager of the Information Bureau, where the lost pocketbook was turned in. Hewlett refused the reward.

Miss Brown, who is on her way to Portland, Ore., for a visit, left last night at 11 o'clock with an excellent opinion of St. Louis hospitality.

Negress Slashes Husband.

Because he objected to the presence of a boarder, Theodore Moore, a negro, living at 1223 Market street, was slashed on the throat and breast with a razor by his wife, Rebecca, Thursday night. An artery in the neck was severed and physicians at the City Hospital say Moore cannot live. Mrs. Moore is in the Four Courts holdover.

Country House Parties. The Fourth was spent rather quietly at various country homes about St. Louis. Family parties prevailed and festivity was limited to entertainment for the children and usually a display of fireworks with usually one meal served at fresco. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carr had a family party with them, though no special features were arranged. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Carr went out from the city, while Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Carr closed their country home and journeyed to their relatives' place, which is not far from them in Glencoe. At Alden Hall, the William C. Little country place, another family party was entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Little and Mr. and Mrs. Carey Weisger had with them Judge and Mrs. Franklin Ferriss, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Little, Mr. William Hoblitzelle and Mr. Hugh Ferriss. The day was occupied with outdoor fun and fireworks in the evening from the high piazzas.

Messrs. and Mrs. George Bergfeld, Chris Garvey, Sam W. Kiefer, Fred White and James Gatewood motored to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spencer Thursday, where they spent the day and evening. Mrs. Lucas at Home. Mrs. J. B. C. Lucas entertained at her country place very informally Thursday. Mrs. Lucas, who is still in St. Luke's Hospital, is much improved. Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Simmons spent the day at Carrowood with their children. They had no guests except Mr. Charles Filley, father of Mrs. Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston Force and Miss Delphine Force, who are at Lindenwood, St. Charles, had a quiet family party with Mr. Lincoln from St. Louis for one of their guests. Miss Virginia Claudy departed Wednesday evening for the Clardy farm near Farmington, Mo., where she gave a week-end house party. Miss Clardy was accompanied by Misses Anna Farris, Alice Armstrong, Messrs. Mark A. Seward, Campbell and Spencer.

G. T. C. Outing Party. The G. T. C. Girls gave an outing at Meramec Highlands Tuesday. The day was enjoyed with outdoor sports. The morning was spent in playing tennis and canoeing, while the afternoon was spent touring in a motor car. A repast was served, before which the president read a toast. Those present were: Misses—Evelyn Keating, Lavinia Keating,
Jennie Beer,
Nebel Brinkman, Vivian Wade,
Marie Taylor,
Pauline Ross.
Prof. and Mrs. J. J. O'Connell, who are at Lindenwood, St. Charles, had a quiet family party with Mr. Lincoln from St. Louis for one of their guests.

"The Model's" Great Semi-Annual Sale of Fine Trousers

Begins Tomorrow

Our great Semi-Annual Trousers Sale is an event eagerly awaited each season by thousands of St. Louis men and young men who know and appreciate the genuineness of "The Model's" greater value-giving.

For the past 60 days we have been preparing for this sale. We are going to make it the greatest sale of its kind in our career, as these unparalleled offerings now indicate.

This year's Eastern market conditions gave us price concessions we were never before able to obtain. We in turn offer them to you at the lowest prices we have ever been able to name. See special display in our Washington Avenue windows.

Come and make your selections from over 10,000 pair of highest grade Trousers made in America. We have divided them into four great lots. At $2.60, for instance, there are fine through-and-through worsteds, all-wool cassimeres, Scotch-outing flannels—in stripes, checks, plaids, invisible checks, shadowy plaids. Each pair strictly tailored to conform to the best custom-tailored productions; with or without cuff bottoms; belt straps; finest imported waistband linings; best pocketing, and sizes for every build from 32 to 52 waists and 29 to 38 lengths.

A half dozen pair would be a great investment for any man at these extreme bargain prices.

BRYCE DIDN'T EXPRESS VIEWS OF OKLAHOMA

British Ambassador Declares Published Reports Are Unfounded.

WIRES POST-DISPATCH

He Has No Desire to Meddle
With American Politics,
He Asserts.

Bryce Denies He Made Statement as Published.

(By Telegram to the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.)

INTERVALE, N. H., July 5.— Published statement attributed to me regarding merits of Oklahoma constitution wholly unfounded. I invariably refused to express my opinions on its provisions, as I have invariably refused to say anything whatever on any American political question since I came to the United States in official capacity. JAMES BRYCE.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Unofficial advices received here that James Bryce, the British Ambassador, did not commend the constitution of Oklahoma and made none of the statements attributed to him, tend to disprove the reports that the Ambassador had incurred the displeasure of President Roosevelt, and that he was in danger of being given his passports.

There was no warrant for the flurry in official circles over the statements attributed to Ambassador Bryce.
While the officials of the Department of State were greatly surprised when they read of the alleged interview, they felt that a satisfactory explanation would be made, and there would be no cause for action by this Government when all the facts became known.

No Action to Be Taken.
Acting Secretary of State Adee, who was in charge of the Department of State at the time, declared that no notice of the alleged statement would be taken by him. When Robert Bacon, the Assistant Secretary of State, resumed charge after a short vacation, he said he would do nothing about the matter, but would await instructions from President Roosevelt.

The matter is regarded as a closed incident by the officials of the department and nothing will be done, unless they receive specific directions from the President, who is the only person with authority to take up the subject.

Roosevelt Has Made No Order.
That the President does not intend to order action is indicated by the fact that so much time has elapsed without his doing so.

Ambassador Bryce is regarded as the last man in the diplomatic corps to discuss domestic policies, especially as he is so well posted on American affairs. He also remembers the fate of Lord Sackville West, the British Minister to Washington, who was given his passports by President Cleveland for writing a letter to a former British subject advising that person how to vote.

PREPARING FOR ONE FIGHT IS KILLED IN ANOTHER

Georgian Shot and Instantly Slain at Grovetown, Ga., During Baseball Game.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
AUGUSTA, Ga., July 5.—A special from Grovetown, Ga., says: While getting ready to settle with fists a dispute with one man over a Fourth of July baseball game, R. Young got into a second argument with another man named Capers, by whom he was shot and instantly killed. Capers fled, but was captured and is now in Columbia County Jail.

HIGHWAY ENGINEER IS SOUGHT

Salary Is $3000 and Few Seek State Job.

The Missouri Board of Agriculture will meet at the Southern Hotel Saturday to select a State Highway Commissioner, the office having been created by the last Legislature.

The position pays $3000 a year and it is understood few applications have been received. It is argued that an experienced engineer, qualified to supervise the construction of highways, can earn $10,000 a year.

The State appropriated $475,000, a war claim received from the Federal Government, for good roads, to be apportioned equally among the counties.
The amount allotted to St. Louis, classed as a county under the good roads act, is $4112.

The Legislature also appropriated $500,000 for the construction of a highway across the State from east to west, but this money will not be available until next year.

Whether convict labor shall be employed on the roadways is one of the subjects for the board to consider.

PIN CAUSES BLOOD POISON

Running a pin into her finger has caused the death by blood poison of a Chester, Pa., lady. X-Zella should be put on any fool's errand as it destroys the germs that produce blood poison and quickly grows healthy flesh over the wound.

CARR STREET CHILDREN WHO HAVE EARNED MONEY FOR THE PURE MILK AND ICE FUND

Sadie Kolbrenner. Bertha Reiter. Mary Luntz. Hazel Robinson.

GRATEFUL MOTHER GIVES FOR PURE MILK

Three Dollars Added to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund by a Poor Woman Whose Baby Was Saved by the Milk.

MRS. F. H. ABELN of 1712 South Tenth street is so grateful to the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund for saving the life of her 9-months-old boy that she has contributed of her small means three dollars to the fund. She is determined to do her part in the grand crusade against infantile sickness and death, and wants other mothers, in poorer circumstances than herself, to share with her the blessings that are being daily bestowed by the Pure Milk Fund. This is surely the right spirit—the spirit of giving, in thankfulness for having received. If everyone were as philanthropically inclined, all the poor little suffering to-ment babies would be assured of a restful, painless summer.

"It is no more than I should do, and not the least fraction of what I would like to do," she said Thursday. "I think the milk is the only thing for babies, and the people who have put it within our reach are doing the grandest work they could possibly do. I only hope everybody will wake up right away to its importance and its magnificence, and do as much to help as they can."

"Why, just see what it has done for my boy! When he was 3 weeks old, he weighed only six pounds. We put him on this milk, and in a few months he weighed 12 pounds. Isn't that wonderful? That was last summer, and about Christmas time I thought I couldn't get the milk any more, so commenced trying various baby foods. I tried every kind known to humanity, but little Lester grew weaker and weaker all the time. He had every baby illness imaginable, and every one threatened to carry him off. I had to walk the floor with him till 5 o'clock every morning, and then Mr. Abeln would take him and let me get a little nap. He would lie all day, not seeking anything, with such a listless, lifeless air that I feared every day he would not be with us the next.
The poor little fellow was almost dead a month or so ago, when the milk stations out here opened.

"The milk has done so much for us, and been the cause of so much happiness to us, that I just want every mother to get the benefit of it. It would hurt me terribly to know that any poor little suffering baby had died for lack of it.
So I want to do the little I can to put it within the reach of poorer mothers, and it makes me so happy to know that my $3 will bring relief to 200 babies, and rest and happiness to 300 mothers."

Just think of it! Isn't that an easy way to do wholesale good? In what other way could you make so many people happy with $3? Perhaps you can not afford to give $3? Then give what you can. If it is only a dime or a quarter—that means 10 or 25 babies fed.

Perhaps your husband brings home only $3 or $10 a week in his envelope on Saturday? Then Saturday is the time to send us something—while you have
it. Don't wait till the first of the week, when you will have spent it. If you can't afford to send us much at one time, no doubt you could send us a little several times. You had not thought of that, had you? You thought,
"Oh, a quarter won't do much good, and I couldn't afford to send more than that."
But your quarter would do a heap of good, and a second quarter would just double the good. So wake up—if you have raised children, think what a joy and blessing they have been to you, and help other mothers to raise theirs. If you have none, that is all the more reason why you can and ought to help these who have. We await your response.

GUGGENHEIM FORCES CAUSE BLOODSHED IN ALASKA

One Man Killed, Another Fatally Injured in Fight Over Right of Way.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SEATTLE, Wash., July 5.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from Valdez, Alaska, says: One man is dead, another is so badly injured he cannot live and nine are more or less seriously wounded as a result of the first conflict between the Guggenheim and the Bruner interests in Katalla day before yesterday.
The fight is over a right of way which the Bruner forces are protecting.

The Guggenheim interests stationed detachments of armed men at points commanding the disputed ground early in the day. Tony de Pascal, in charge of a party of laborers, started out to lay track over the Bruner right of way under cover of a fire from these camps.
A brisk fire was opened from the Bruner camp, but De Pascal's men succeeded in capturing the steel "go-devil" on which the Bruner camp had relied to destroy the work done by their opponents.

Representatives of the Bruner interests are making every endeavor to have Gov. Hoggatt order troops to the scene of hostilities.

CITY TOO HOT FOR MRS. ALLEN

Her Counsel Says She Must Go to Summer Resort and Wants Divorce.

JUDGE NOT READY

Husband Said Trouble Was Caused by Summer Resort Visits.

Mrs. Emily R. Allen, whose fondness for summer resorts was given by her husband as one of the causes of the divorce suit, should be seeking health at a resort; right now, her attorney says.
He urged this as a reason for asking Judge McDonald to make an immediate decision in Mrs. Allen's suit.

When the case was tried a few days ago the husband, John M. Allen, president of the Union Service Co., was summoned, though he had made no defense and the case was on the default docket.
Questioned by the Judge, Mr. Allen told of his wife's fondness for summer resorts and of his objections to her frequent trips and long absences from home.

Judge McDonald took the case under advice and said that he would give a decision Friday morning. Former Judge Selden P. Spencer, attorney for Mrs. Allen, was in court when Judge McDonald announced Friday morning that he was not prepared to give his decision.

Mr. Spencer then urged that the decision be handed down as early as possible, saying that his client's health was such that it was imperative that she go to a summer resort immediately.

Judge McDonald replied that he was not entirely satisfied that a divorce should be granted and this led Mr.
Spencer to make a brief argument as to the evidence.

He explained that Mrs. Allen's son was with her on her various trips and he said that this fact tended to show that the trips were entirely innocent.

Referring to Mrs. Allen's testimony that her husband had made allegations against her conduct, Mr. Spencer said that these charges constituted as great an indignity as a husband can offer to a wife.

"That is true," Judge McDonald agreed, "providing there is no cause to justify the husband's suspicions."

Judge McDonald finally said that he would read the testimony in the case and Mr. Spencer's brief and would announce his decision within a week.

YOUNG FORSTER IS NAVAL CADET

St. Louis Youth Passes Examination and Is Admitted to Annapolis.

PUPIL AT SMITH ACADEMY

Quit There When Appointed to Naval Academy by Congressman Coudrey.

Otto M. Forster, a St. Louis youth of 18 years ago, and is the son of the late C. August Forster and nephew of E. Marquardt and Dr. Otto E. Forster.

He attended the public schools, and after passing through the grammar grade entered the Smith Academy.

Something over six months ago Hon. Harry M. Coudrey of the Twelfth Congressional District gave him the alternative appointment to the United States Naval Academy. Although he had not finished his course in Smith, he withdrew and went to Annapolis, where he entered a preparatory school to fit himself for the grueling examination to which all candidates for the naval school are subjected. On Tuesday the examination was completed and he received the glad announcement that he had passed in both the intellectual and the physical. Friday was named as the date of his admission. His mother went East immediately on receipt of the news to be with him on his initiation day.

Ode to the Ice Man.
Enter the ice man! A mighty man is he
And to the panting world at large a star
He takes a little piece of ice and sells it for That's hardly worth a nickel; and he knows No matter how we kick about the price we You'll find he keeps on charging in the same old care-free way.
We've often pictured joyfully what fate is held in store
For the ice man when he lands upon the dark, Plutonian shore.

BALLOON HITS A CLOUD BUT LANDS SAFELY

Young Cartwright's Maiden Trip Turns Out a Great Success.

HE GOES 25 MILES

Has to Throw Away Ballast as Airship Plunges 2000 Feet in Five Minutes.

Having triumphantly completed a balloon flight of 25 miles, the first ascension by any of the theoretical amateur aeronautic enthusiasts in St. Louis, Hugh F. Cartwright, secretary to Russell E. Gardner of the Aero Club, who was with H. E. Moneywell, a professional, received the congratulations of his friends Thursday night with a modesty equal to the courage which he displayed in making the ascent.

Starts at Gas Works.
The start was made at 9:35 o'clock Thursday morning from the Laclede gas plant, and the trip ended two hours afterward in a wheat field six miles from Lebanon, Ill. The young aeronauts had not planned a long trip, but had to come to earth sooner than he had intended because of a collision with a cloud which chilled the gas in the bag and caused the balloon to drop 200 feet in five minutes. Every ounce of ballast had to be thrown out to make the landing easier. The balloon is the St. Louis, owned by Mr. Gardner.

In discussing his trip Cartwright said: "The pleasure of a balloon ride is not to be compared with any other method of travel. All feeling of fear or uneasiness left me as we got over the river, after that I only thought of the enjoyment of the free motion and the beautiful picture spread out below us."

Sail Over Belleville.
"We went first east, then northeast, and soon after passing beyond East St. Louis we were over Belleville, a little to the north of the town. A hand in a park surrounded us, and the people shot off some big bombs and anvils. He shouted down at them through a megaphone, and could see them trying to make us hear their shouts, but could hear only a confused noise."
"Other towns and small settlements which we did not recognize seemed all to be celebrating and we got a lot more fireworks and more band concerts. We hoped to stay up most of the afternoon, but when we were near a town, which we think was Mascoutah, we came between us and the sun. That caused the bag to shrink and we sank rapidly. We had to throw out so much ballast that we saw we would have to land soon."

Passed Through Cloud.
"We passed through the corner of the cloud, but did not get very wet. We landed easily and without jar or jolt, and people going into Lebanon to celebrate took us with them."
Cartwright was about the coolest man in the crowd at the Laclede gas plant. As the balloon swiftly but easily sailed aloft he chewed gum with the greatest unconcern, and waved a careless farewell with his hat to the countless friends on earth, who were cheering him about the perils of his trip. He decided only a week ago to make the ascension.

NAVAL CADETS REFUSE TO RETURN TO DUTY ON SHIP

Fifty-Three on Shore Leave Make Demand for Better Food.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
NEW LONDON, Conn., July 5.—Claiming that the food given them had been unsatisfactory and that the shore-leave has been too short, 53 of the 70 cadets of the training ship Enterprise, which now is in the harbor, refused to return to the ship when their leave ended yesterday.

Instead, they sent a note to Capt. Low, outlining their position and demanding more favorable conditions. Receiving no answer, they sent two of their number in a small boat alongside the ship to learn the situation, but not to go aboard.

The two messengers were informed the cadets could come aboard or stay on shore, as they chose. The cadets spent the night on shore.

DROVE STOLEN HORSE OVER MAN

Owner of the Rig Identifies Property at Police Station.

After Lester Gunn of 1402 Biddle street had been arrested for careless driving on complaint of an old man who had been run over by the horse and buggy driven by him were identified as having been stolen from Edward Fox of 2123 Iowa avenue.

Fox claimed his property at the Carr Street Station, where Gunn was locked up. He said they were taken from 4200 Page avenue. Gunn said he found the rig at Fifteenth street and Franklin avenue. William Miller, aged 64, who was run over at Sixteenth and Wash streets, was not seriously hurt.

Novelist's Souvenir Postal Cards.
Seumas MacManus' American friends are in receipt of postal cards from him which bear a picture of the little village of Mountcharles, in Donegal, Ireland, and the hill behind it on which stands the cottage where the Irish writer is spending the summer. Mountcharles is situated near the shores of Donegal Bay, on the north side, and is a typical Irish. Mr. MacManus is a hard worker and will devote to literary labors much of the time he spends among Donegal's gray hills. The name of his cottage is Dun Ethna.

Ladies Make Railroad's Flags.
For 12 years the Ladies' Aid Society of Sedalia, Mo., has acted as Betsy Ross for the M., K. & T. Railway System. The "Katy" company furnished all the material and the women are paid each cent for making the flags. Many shipments of 100 dozen have been made. There are four styles of these flags. Red signifies danger, white that a train is following and blue that an engine or car in the yard is undergoing repairs.

SHOOTS DIVORCED WIFE AND KILLS A BOARDER

Quarrel Over Property Ends in Tragedy; Slayer Says Drink Crazed Him.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 5.—As the result of a murderous attack which Maurice Hills of Chicago made upon his divorced wife, Harriet W. Hills, last night, James Delehanty is dead and Mrs. Hills is seriously wounded. Hills is under arrest.

The shooting resulted from a quarrel over the disposition of farm property in Long Meadow, the title to which was in Mrs. Hills' name, and which Hills wished her to sell. While the dispute was going on, James Delehanty, a boarder in the house, stepped into the room just at the moment when Hills was firing a revolver at Mrs. Hills. Without warning, Hills fired upon Delehanty twice, both bullets lodging in the head, causing death several hours later.

Hills told the officers that he had done the shooting, but did not realize at the time when he was doing, being, he said, crazed with drink.

Hills was married 10 years ago to the woman he tried to kill, and they are the parents of three children, who have been in the custody of the mother since the divorce.

DOCTOR SAYS HOGS GET MORE ATTENTION THAN MAN

Chicago Health Commissioner As- serts the Government Does Little for Human Beings.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, July 5.—"If I were to be born again and my wishes were consulted I believe I'd rather be a hog," said Health Commissioner Evans today upon his return from a trip through the Eastern cities, where he made a study of the methods in vogue in the health departments.

Special attention was given to the Federal department in Washington, where Dr. Evans said hundreds of bacteriologists labor daily to find means of preventing diseases in hogs. "The diseases of human beings are a secondary consideration," said Dr. Evans. "The Government spends more on the bacteriology of hogs than it does on the bacteriology of man in 25 years. It is true, they are doing something for men. They have a marine hospital, but as I wandered around and looked at the immense buildings devoted to the study of the diseases of grasses and other foods, I concluded man was a minor being after all, and that I'd rather be a hog."

CANNOT GET MEN TO WORK IN KANSAS WHEAT FIELDS

Less Than Fifty Apply for Employment Where 18,000 Are Needed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—With Kansas calling for 18,000 men to harvest a 60,000,000-bushel wheat crop, fewer than fifty men applied at the State Free Employment Bureau for work today. "It's remarkable," said Secretary Schweitzer. "In previous seasons there were so many applicants we were hardly able to handle them. The country doesn't seem to realize the number of men it will require to harvest 60,000,000 bushels of wheat. Reports of a short crop are keeping men at home. The employment will last 60 days. Farmers are so anxious for men they are chartering cars in Kansas City and giving free transportation to all who apply. Wages range from $2.25 to $3 a day and board."

Police Judge Kyle of Kansas City has promised to send all vagrants to the wheat fields instead of the workhouse.

ATTACKED BY TWO NEGROES AND THEN LOCKED IN CELL

One Prisoner Surrenders Only After Three Shots Are Fired at Him.

Godfrey Rindeschach, 28 years old, of 80 South Second street, said, "I do not speak to niggers," when accosted by two negroes in the saloon at 783 South Second street Thursday night. When Rindeschach left the saloon one of the negroes wielded a beer glass and the other used a knife. Rindeschach received two scalp wounds and cut in the left breast. After being treated at the City Dispensary he was locked up.

Later the police arrested Thomas and Cornelius Anderson, at 12 South Fourth street. Cornelius ran away and two shots were fired at him before he surrendered.

The Andersons deny having attacked Rindeschach.

JEALOUS OF WIFE, SEEKS DEATH

Alton Man Arrested After Attempt to Take Poison.

After being separated three times from his 16-year-old wife in three months, Samuel Johnson, an employee of the Illinois Glass Co., attempted to commit suicide Alton Thursday by drinking carbolic acid.

Johnson, who had left his wife each time on account of jealousy, after buying the acid, went to the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Main, at 28 Indiana avenue, and in the presence of his wife and other members of the family said he was going to kill himself. He put the bottle to his lips, but it was snatched away before he could swallow any of the poison. His mouth was badly burned.

A warrant was sworn out for Johnson's arrest by his wife on the charge of disturbing the peace. He was locked in jail.

BOY SHOOT BABY AT PLAY

Borrows Toy Pistol and Does Not Know It Is Loaded.

CHILD MAY NOT LIVE

Father Holding Infant Does Not Realize Child Is Wounded.

Edna, black-eyed, 16-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Price, 1538 Parsons avenue, East St. Louis, is suffering from a wound in the left side, made by the bullet from Marcus Mo-

Cord's toy revolver. Physicians hope that she will live.

Little Edna was sitting on her father's lap Thursday evening, watching the fireworks, and Marcus, who is 9 and lives at 1823 Parsons avenue, was playing with a little boy next door.

Marcus borrowed the toy pistol from his friend Harry Ward and ran with it toward Mr. Price and shouted "Your money or your life!" Then he fired. Mr. Price paid no attention to the discharge of the toy pistol and was surprised when his baby began to cry.

He talked to the baby, and when she did not quiet, handed her to her mother. The baby continued to cry, although her mother played with her.

Blood on her clothing was seen. Physicians were called, while the baby's garments were taken off. They found that the missile had entered the left side and worked around toward the muscles of the back.

The baby is an only child.

Missed a Good Thing.
From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
"What are you crying for, my poor little boy?"
"Don't take on so, my old. He'll get better soon."
"Steady, say him fall all the way. I never saw suffer."

FATALLY BEATEN BY ROWDIES

George McGuire of San Francisco Found Dying in Street.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—With his skull fractured and face terribly beaten up, George McGuire, local manager of Bradstreet's, was found dying early today at Jackson and Fillmore streets.

According to the story told to the police, McGuire alighted from a street car and started to walk to his home, a distance of three blocks. As he started up the street he was accosted by a couple of men, who, according to a woman who witnessed the affair, asked McGuire if he had ridden on the car.

Upon his reply in the affirmative he was set upon by the men and beaten into unconsciousness. The police have no clues to his assailants.

Surely so good a man as Mr. Rockefeller will not bear false witness.

The deadheads are ready to join the railroads in any war for a return to the 3-cent fare.

Charlie Fairbanks may win, after all. The lidlifters may rise and carry him to the White House.

ROCKEFELLER'S EXHIBITION.

Cornered and caught by the trick of a process server of a court of the United States, what a pitiable and contemptible object John D. Rockefeller was! He grinned like a spoiled child caught in a punishable act.

Yet the subpoena which was served upon Mr.
Rockefeller after he had exhausted the resources of himself and his friends in seeking to dodge it by concealment and ingenious evasion, was issued by a court established to maintain law and order for the benefit of Mr. Rockefeller himself. Without law, without the courts, without orderly government, Mr. Rockefeller would be naked to his enemies. He would have been unable to accumulate any part of his vast fortune or to hold it for himself and his family. He depends on the Government, its laws and courts for protection of his life and property, for the opportunity to live in security and peace, for the privilege of holding his property and transmitting it by will. Mr.
Rockefeller would be greatly indignant if in any issue upon which he had appealed to the courts it would permit its processes to be treated with contempt. When an attempt is made to court process he confesses his own wrongdoing and exhibits the worst form of citizenship, a standard of conduct usually found only among criminals.

Mr. Rockefeller and his associates in court will present a pleasing spectacle to the people of the United States. All of the structure of good government rests upon the theory that the law is no respector of persons. That theory must be vindicated. The courts of the United States and of the states must demonstrate beyond a doubt the equality of every man under the law, regardless of his wealth, position or influence under the law. Nothing would go further towards this demonstration than the punishment of the wealthy owners and managers of great trust corporations who have treated the law and courts with contempt.

Ten million street railway passengers were carried in 10 June days by the United Railways of St. Louis. If only Col. Sellers might hear about it!

FAST WORK FOR COM. GARDNER.

The President is to be here but five hours on his trip down the river, which means that Commodore Russell E. Gardner must be lightning fast as big splash on that day.

Commodore Gardner—who, by the way, was recently suggested in an unofficial way for the Secretaryship of the Navy sometime when there is a vacancy—is going to show Mr. Roosevelt a few bow waves that day. He has been very busy for some time, and his program hints at a very violent agitation of the water from the time the eminent visitor is spoken off the Chain of Rocks until he is lost behind the bend below Jefferson Barracks. What with swimming races, boat matches, diving for distance and against the watch, bridge jumping, wading hurdles, water polo, trained seal and flying fish, and a captive whale or two blowing in the harbor, there will be something doing when the President comes.

The nature fakers are familiar with Mr. Roosevelt's claim to see everything. Let him see if he can do it when Commodore Gardner turns on his big water fete next October.

B. Franklin and T. Jefferson would have been amazed at the splendor of Ambassador Reid.

SUMMER STREET-CAR TRAVEL.

When the United Railways report carrying over a million passengers every Sunday in June, the general manager expresses confidence that even this extraordinary record of trolley travel will be broken during the late summer and fall, "if the weather is favorable."

The weather is an important factor. Another of importance at least as great is adequate and convenient public service.

The service given is not yet convenient. It is not yet adequate, but still it pays up to the limit of the accommodation and as far beyond the limit as the public can pack or be packed into the cars.

The demonstrated fact is that this year and probably for years to come, maximum travel on Sundays and other holidays will not be reached.
The electric car for holiday outings in the county might be made the greatest convenience and one of the greatest blessings of city life. It is already a blessing in spite of the fact that it is not yet a convenience, or at least never reliably so.

The increase made in the conveniences of the service have always resulted in an increased demand for the service, soon going beyond the conveniences provided for its accommodation.

No one recognizes this more fully than the local managers themselves. They see the probability of constantly increasing revenue as a result of increasing the conveniences of the service. Yet until now, they wait to be forced forward by public protest, which, when it has its effect, results in supplying additional facilities this year which might have been adequate last year. Sooner or later, however, the fact will be recognized that when a public demand is pressing, it is business to keep ahead of it and not to be dragged by it into making more money.

"Death is the only thing that can keep John D.
Rockefeller out of jail," says Thomas W. Lawson.
And Mr. Rockefeller is protesting that he's already a "dead one" in the management of the Standard. So he's probably safe.

THE LESSON OF CAUTION.

The accident to the Cadillac machine in the automobile endurance race, which, by singular good fortune, resulted in no fatalities, was a good illustration of the way races of that kind ought not to be run. The essential condition of fast racing with powerful automobiles is a good track, clear of all obstruction. Not only should the track be cleared of all obstructions and the obstructions put so far away from the race road that there is no possibility of striking them, but careful watch should be kept to keep it clear.

A large percentage of automobile accidents, not only in racing, but in ordinary driving, is caused by failure to realize that safety with high speed requires perfect roads. When we desert the iron tracks of the railroad with a machine capable of making the speed of a locomotive, we ought to see that the substitute for the iron rails is the best of its kind. But in violation of this rule auto drivers rush at breakneck speed over all kinds of roads—roads with ruts, stones and obstructions that are hard on ordinary vehicles and which supply ideal conditions for accidents to machines running at very high speed. Even in races sufficient care is not taken to maintain a clear track.

Carelessness with new high power machines constructed for pleasure is the rule. We learn the lesson of caution at disastrous cost.

The Pennsylvania woman who poured coal oil over her drunken husband and set fire to him, did not do it in the cause of temperance, but merely to marry a man who drank less.

MATERNAL GOVERNMENT.

Under the new Illinois cigarette law, pipes and cigars may be smoked until a cloud of nicotine vapor hangs over Illinois from Cairo to Chicago, but anyone who crosses the bridge from St. Louis to East St. Louis must give up the habit of having a paper cover around the tobacco with which he attempts to soothe his temper and reach impossible happiness by a royal road.

This inconsistency is a result of maternal government in Illinois. The political ladies who hope to redeem the world as soon as they can get it well under control of its mothers, its sisters, its female cousins and its aunts, want to arrest, lock up and bring to repentance on prison diet every male inhabitant of Illinois who has cigarettes in his possession.

They have not yet reached that goal of reform, but they may finally. In the meantime, they raise the question of why maternal government should put so much confidence in the calaboose and so little in its own power of "moral uplift."
It has the power of moral uplift in unlimited quantities, while, after all, the capacity of the calaboose in East St. Louis and all other parts of Illinois is limited.

Moreover, if the ladies could put in the cala-boose all males of all ages with all masculine bad habits, the masculine experience of life is that what is learned from calaboose discipline most easily is more masculine bad habits. Why, then, should not maternal government trust less and less to the calaboose and more and more to its own moral uplift?

Is a policeman or a public prosecutor eligible for membership in the Law Enforcement League?

SIGNS OF "PROSPERITY."

How prosperous we are, to be sure!
In the last fiscal year we bought abroad merchandise upon which we paid import taxes amounting to $333,230,126. This was an increase of $33,000,000 over the taxes of the preceding year. Which, in turn, had broken all earlier records. So vast was last year's income of the Government from this source that there remains a treasury surplus over all expenditures of nearly $87,000,000—the largest net balance but one in 18 years.

Isn't it glorious? In a single year $333,230,126 contributed directly by the people, as a tribute to "prosperity." The average ad valorem tax on these imports amounted to 45 per cent of their selling price in the countries where they were bought—that is to say, we paid the importers 45 per cent more than the makers of the commodities would have charged us had we bought direct in a free field. This difference we paid for no reason on earth save for the benefit of favored protected manufacturers.

Nor does that tell all of the story. That's only a small fraction. Our domestic production of commodities last year was 35 times greater than the amount of our imports. On the larger portion of this domestic production the producers laid market values that would bring prices "up to the duty line," so that the consumer actually paid a tax, equal to the import duty, for the privilege of buying the fruits of home industries. So it appears that our contribution to "prosperity" amounts, not to paltry hundreds of millions, but to many billions of dollars each year.

What? No compensating increase of wages?
The purchasing power of the dollar cut nearly in half? Oh, hush! Forget it! Don't knock, but boost. For this is "prosperity."

If you do not get your full share, somebody gets yours and his own.

JUST A MINUTE

WITH POST-DISPATCH

A PICTURE.

O, mortal undreaming, forlorn
For the want of a change in life's mixture,
Disheartened by failure, and torn
By the world's harsh and unthinking stricture,
Come with me, and I will adorn
The fr-ctful skies with a picture.

O, first we shall dream of an isle
On the wide and uncharted Pacific,
Where the soft skies unfurling smile
And the path of the typhoon terrific Lies distant, O many a mile,
And the soil in tall palms is prolific.

O, the sands of this island are bright,
And we are the first on its shore;
There's a shady, secure little light
Where a beautiful waterfall roars,
And this is our Isle of Delight
Forever—my island and yours.

O, we walk the slim footpath around,
And sometimes look out from the steep,
And the solitude there is profound,
And sweet is the vigil we keep,
For never a sail may be found
On the face of the infinite deep.

O, the poets oft walk with us where Life's chaos can bother us not;
We are thoughtful, and learn to be fair
And much else that the world has forgot;
We are fond of our Stevenson there,
And quoting "The Tempest" a lot.

O, the days are so mellow and rare,
And the sea is so lovely and wide;
The gray is gone out of our hair,
We are healthy, and sane, and clear-eyed—
And if rescuer hither shall fare,
We shall shut for the tall palms and hide.

THE EXPLANATION.

"The Bagleys had more wedding presents than any couple I ever knew."
"Are you sure they were all presents?"
"Of course they were."
"Well, I'm not so sure. There was a wagon from the jewelry store waiting when we left the house, which gave me the impression that most of the things were merely rented for the evening."

AN INDISCRETION.

"I'll bet the railroads are sorry they ever put in those mile posts."
"Why?"
"If they hadn't done that they might have increased the distance between stations to meet the new 2-cent rate."

REFORM.

"I observe one very salutary effect of the 2-cent railroad fare."
"So?"
"Yes, they're not so keen about making a traveler miss his train."

UNKIND.

"The new doctor had a telephone put in his office today."
"That so? I supposed he was summoned with a duck-caller."

Not in Earnest.

"What! You going to propose to Miss Heartburn? Why, you're the last man in the world she'll engage herself to."
"I hope so, dear old chappie."

UNDER THE SMOKE

BY CLARK MEADAMS

DID YOU MISS YOURSELF? DON'T LAUGH.

HOSE of us who missed ourselves yesterday have no time for congratulations. It is July. The sun closes in for a knock-out. The ice-cooler decays the weak stomach and attacks it with cramps. Cholera morbus bobs up at the breakfast table subtly concealed in the corrugated canteloupe.
Friends leave for the sea and lakes wondering how we manage to make so little when money was never so plentiful. Persons laboring under the delusion that we are doing well mail us circulars advertising Colorado resorts, with splendid likenesses of Pike's Peak covered with snow. Women who want a change of husbands give the present liege lord plenty of iced tea, and the poet falls on his harp to say that

The melancholy days are here
For humans and for dogs,
When the hard-worked cans are full of beer,
And the end seats full of hogs.

Ponds turn green and boats turn turtle. Ice heavily impregnated with ammonia explodes in the wagon. The blackberry pie takes up a position somewhere in the innards of man, defying hot water and Epsom salts. People who were married in June begin to find each other out. Hot-weather booze fighters work hard all week and die on Sunday blaming it on the lid. College graduates, after waiting around a while for vacancies in railroad presidencies and newspaper editorships, finally decide to do harvest work in Kansas. The poet takes a second fall out of his harp to sing:

In July a young man's frolic
Lightly seeks the beaten track
To some swimming hole bucolic
To get blisters on his back.

Thermometers begin to stew, and we wonder how people stand it in Chicago. House help swarms and settles in the country for harvest. Vice-President Fairbanks goes to his summer home and wades Lake Erie. Lecturers hit the Chautauqua circuit and join the other bugs under the outdoor light. September seems an inviting oasis far across the hot sands. Brewers are encouraged, rich golf players range across country followed by slaves trundling an icebox on a wheelbarrow and serving mint juleps, and the poet wins the third straight fall with

Loaf and the world loaf with you,
Work and you are a mark,
For the boss and all the office force
Are at the baseball park.

A MAN TO AVOID

Betty Vincent's Advice to Girl Readers of the Post-Dispatch.

IF YOU meet a man who tells you that such and such a woman wants to marry him, make up your mind that he is a man to avoid if you don't want him to say the same thing about you.

The other day a young girl I know met a man at dinner, who referred to a woman by name in this way: "She wanted to marry me, but I couldn't see it."

And apparently this man had no idea of the utter caddishness of the remark.

Such men are rare in America. The finest trait of the American man is his reticence about women. But when you meet one of them do not let any attractive quality he may possess blind you to the war in his nature which should make it impossible for any self-respecting woman to associate with him.

Men who boast, whether of their business or their love affairs, are always bluffers trying harder to convince themselves than to convince you. Avoid them if you do not want to be published broadcast as the next victim of their charms.

A Spiritual Suggestion for Today for it is pure and limpid, and refreshing and inviting, and serviceable and rich, and innocent and un-jurious.—Epictetus.

Work for the Tender-Hearted.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your paper of July 2 a woman who signs herself Miss Wright gives an account of what she saw in one of the shows on the Pike in Delmar Garden last Sunday. While I do not approve of torture in any form for any animal, I wish to say for the enlightenment of the lady that if she is a tender-hearted she can find a much wider and far nobler field wherein to spend her Sunday afternoons than on the Pike in Delmar Garden. There are hundreds of poor, half-starved, half-clothed children in St. Louis, many of them lying on a few old clothes in a corner of some back room where God's sunlight never enters, racked with pain and suffering, not knowing what it is to have enough to eat to keep body and soul together, with no one to give them a kind word or cheering smile. Many of whom must suffer and die during the summer for want of the help and care that we as civilized, Christian people should try to bestow upon them.

There are scores of mothers who are working during the day to provide food and raiment for loved ones and perhaps sitting throughout the night by the bedside of some sick child for weeks or months who would be glad to receive a word of encouragement or perhaps a small basket of fruit, a bottle of milk or a few flowers, if given in the spirit of Christian love. Think of the heartaches we could relieve, the hunger we could appease, the cheer and comfort we could bring into the lives of others if we but direct our efforts in the right direction.

Woman Wants Advice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will some kind readers advise me how I might be successful in an undertaking of business? I am a lady, stranger in the city, have knowledge of preparing all kinds of salads, do all kinds of garnishings in way of fancy dishes, am expert at setting tables for nice affairs, but have not thus far been able to establish myself properly. I will be very thankful for advice.

MRS. S.

What Champ Said.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In an editorial in today's Post-Dispatch on the "Adroit Champ Clark," Mr. Clark is quoted as saying, in his Maplewood speech Sunday, that "President Roosevelt knows more about more things than any other man I have ever met." Permit me to correct this quotation. Mr. Clark made no such assertion. What Mr. Clark did say was that "President Roosevelt knows a little about more things than any other man I have ever met." A very different statement from the first. Prominent persons, who were present, will I believe, bear me out in this correction.

THE PACIFIC MALTA

AS indicative of the changing order of things, political and commercial, in the Pacific Ocean, the Army and Navy Journal quotes from the Honolulu Gazette the following significant remarks regarding the strategic importance and insignificant defenses of Hawaii:

WHAT is needed for the protection of American coast cities and American commerce in the Pacific is that Hawaii shall be made the Malta of the Pacific. It is not contended that the coast cities could not protect themselves from naval attack; but it is clear that to do so against a Hawaii in hostile hands would cost a sum enormously greater than that required to make these islands impregnable.

Economy demands that American possession here be made absolutely secure. That condition having been reached, nothing extraordinary in the way of defenses or garrisons would be required in California, Oregon and Washington. So long as Hawaii remains unfortified or fortified inadequately, Japan will feel that war with the United States is within the sphere of political politics.

Possessing this base and protected here by floating mines, mortars, siege guns—such as she could easily transport and mount—Japan could make herself a dangerous enemy. Without it she could not do much on this side of the ocean and probably would not venture here except with her commerce destroyers. It should be remembered that in the war with Russia the Japanese Navy refused to give battle far from its base, though they might have taken Rojestvensky unawares in Madagascar waters or in the Straits of Malacca.

A beginning has been made toward fortifying Honolulu and Pearl Harbor, but what the Advertiser wants to press upon the notice of its visitors is the fact that the entire Pacific basin completed will not prevent the landing of hostile forces, efficiently convoys, on the other side of the island. Batteries of heavy guns are nearly as requisite there as here, and there ought to be provision for a large garrison.
Malta is the example; we should emulate that.

FREAKS OF AN OKLAHOMA STORM.

From the Grand Progress.

Here are some of the freak incidents of the tornado in Day County, near Grand. A large number of chickens were killed and most of them had all feathers pulled off, excepting the wing feathers. At Henry McQuinn's it took a wheat-binder and carried it over two fences and put it down wrong side up.
The fences were not injured, but the binder was badly damaged. At Mr. Miller's it pulled up the post in a two-wire fence and carried some of the posts a long distance, but left some of them in the ground where the fence stood. The two wires were carried into a field a long distance away and stretched out straight on the ground close together. One of the most peculiar events was with reference to Mrs.
Wells' window curtains. When the storm struck the house she had a lace curtain over a window. Immediately after the storm she found this lace curtain tied in a bowknot round a fence post. This seems incomprehensible and we will not attempt to explain
it.

GENUINE ENGLISH HUMOR.

From the Chicago Journal.

An American on a visit to London took "bus to the city every morning, where he had business to do with an Anglo-American firm. He always sat behind the driver. On the first journey he noticed that on arriving at a certain corner the driver took out his big silver watch, dangled it to and fro a few times, and winked jovially at an individual who stood at the door of a shop.

"Why do you do that?" the American asked.

"Well," said the driver, taking his pipe from his mouth, "that's a little joke we 'as between us, bein' as we are old friends. You see, his father was 'anged."

What Is the Answer?

Readers of the Post-Dispatch Are Trying to Solve Problem in Arithmetic Which You Will Find Simple.

READERS of the Post-Dispatch disagree over the following problem which first appeared on this page Monday; it seems very simple:

A man wishes to take a houseboat from St. Louis to Alton, a distance which we will call 36 miles. He rows the boat 12 miles each day. While he sleeps at night it drifts back 9 miles; how long will it take him to reach Alton.

Four Days.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In regard to problem about the man rowing the boat from St. Louis to Alton. If he rows 12 miles in one day, he could make the trip in three days, but as he drifts back nine miles he loses three miles each day and makes nine miles. If he makes nine miles one day it will take him as many days to make 36 miles or the trip to Alton, as nine is contained in 36, which is four times. Hence it will take him four days to make the trip from St. Louis to Alton, drifting back nine miles.

Rather Bad Than Home.
The brightest and most comical saying I have heard from the mouth of a baby has been spoken by my little niece, now 3 years old. About two weeks ago she visited her aunt and was told by her mother that when all the clothes which she took along were soiled she should return home. After a week of immense enjoyment little Aline's aunt remarked quietly to her husband that she would have to be taken home as she had no more clean clothes to wear. "But Aunt Birdie," cried little Aline, not caring to go home so soon, "can't I go to bed while you wash them out?"

Troy's Hot Tunkie.
WHILE walking with my little boy of 4 the other day we happened to pass an ice cream parlor when he looked up into my eyes with a painful expression and said, "O, mamma, my tunkie is a full hot." Becoming alarmed, I said, "Why Troy, what can be the matter with your stomach?" and his face changed to a more earnest expression and he said, "I think it wants some ice cream." Another time at the theater, his first time as it was, he grew impatient as he did not see anyone on the stage. Finally he said to me, "Mamma, why don't they preach?"

Roses, Not Eggs, for Dorothy.
DOROTHY LEE TAYLOR at the age of 3 1/2 years was quite a little songstress. She was on a program to sing at a concert one evening. Before starting her grandmother said to her: "Dorothy, if you do real nicely, you get a big bunch of roses." "If I don't do nicely, what will they do?" "Bad eggs," said her G. M., not thinking it would impress the baby. On entering the stage Dorothy made the customary bow, gave a yawn and said: "I wonder will it be bad eggs or roses." Her remark was heard by the audience and a general applause followed on account of her size and age, being very small. She finally got through with a five-stanza song without a blunder, was encored, and sang one more song, retired, was encored the second time. She did not wish to return again. She was told she must go back, make a bow and say something, so after what she did so, and said, "Wait, I'll get it." She got a shower of roses. She certainly did get a shower of roses.

A Corker.
MY little son, not quite 3 years old, was asked after school what he had come from fishing if he had caught any fish. He answered no. Then he was asked why he didn't catch any. He said: "The cork didn't go down."

Virginia and Billy.
VIRGINIA, aged 3 years, had her cousin, Billy, of same age, spending the morning with her, making pies in the sand pile. Billy kept his fresh linen suit free from the batter they stirred the sand and water into before putting to bake in the sun, but was not aware the sand was damp where he had been sitting and had left its mark where he could not see it. Virginia, with her feminine mind, intent upon the delicacies in process of making, had been oblivious of clothes and her dress was a complete mess upon such oblivion. The time came for Billy to return home and Virginia asked to go with him; her mother refused, saying, "Your dress is too dirty." Billy looked down complacently at his own clean front, but upon his playmate's beginning to cry, generously announced, "I'll see if it too dirty." His desire to give her the benefit of any doubt was evidently o'com by the survey, for after walking around her and taking in the whole "tout ensemble," he said, "It is too dirty." Virginia's disappointment seemed swallowed up in surprise at his decision, for looking at her mother indecisibly a look half interrogative, half explanatory, she said, "He can't see his own pants."

When George Washington Called.
WAS calling on the mother of little Frances Gillette one day, and we were chatting in the dining-room, when the door-bell rang and an older brother was sent to answer the door. He was heard to greet someone very heartily and usher them into the parlor, and upon his delay in coming to inform his mother as to whom the caller was, she said to Frances: "Frances, you go into the parlor and say: 'If I do you and I am in moments you come back and I'll be there.'" Frances, aged 4, dropped her picture book and went to do as she was bidden. In a remarkably short time she returned to say: "Mamma, I don't know who he is, but I think he is George Washington. He looks just like the picture you got of him."

THE TRUTH ABOUT
"BOSHTER" BILL SQUIRESTHE NATIVE SONS FALL
FOR ANOTHER BUM FIGHTSquires Was Imported From Australia and Given a Record in the Newspapers in Order to Get the "Loser's End."

BILL SQUIRES—if indeed that be his name—was beaten in less than one round out in San Francisco yesterday by a fourth-class Canadian fighter, one Noah Brusso by name. Mr. Brusso hides his identity in the ring under the cognomen of Tommy Burns.

Brusso, alias Burns, is a self-confessed faker and double-crosser. His best claim to fame as a scrapper was made in a fight in which he deceived Philadelphia Jack O'Brien into not training and then went in to win. Even then he was not able to put out the other end to the fake, although naturally having the best of the battle—so-called.

As to Squires. It is not known whether or not he was a party to the affair yesterday. It is supposed, however, that he was not, and that he was led to the slaughter after being "kidded" into the belief that he was really the champion of Australia.

ND the men back of the bout. Out on the Pacific coast one of the best known of the sporting writers is a man who has always come out before most of the big fights and declared that they were going to be fakes. At times he has written a statement about the number of rounds the battle was to last, and in an envelope and deposited it with a well-known auctioneer, since dead, to be opened after the fight.

He has been mixed up in the management of several fighters himself and it was he who dug up this latest misfit Bill Squires.

Frisco newspaper men stick pretty close to each other, just as do all other Native Sons and it is a good trait. When this particular newspaper writer imagined that the country was ripe for another Jim Jeffries-Jack Munroe affair—and, by the way, Munroe was "discovered" and managed by a New York sporting writer—he sent to Australia and dug up Mr. Squires.

Squires was brought to America and it was thought by his manager that he would have no trouble getting on a bout with Jeffries for the world's championship and a loser's end of a purse which would amount to a great deal more than could be made in a year by any other means and keep out of jail.

But there was a hitch. Jeffries refused to fight the man from Australia unless it was a case of winner take all.

If the winner got all, what would be the loser's end? That was knocked in the head at once, and so other games had to be looked for.

About that time Burns and O'Brien hooked up in a fake fight. By giving O'Brien the double-cross, Burns won the decision and the way was clear for him to fight the Australian.

Bob Edgren of New York, as fair a man as there is in the world, and a splendid judge of fighters, journeyed out to the coast to see Squires. In order that Edgren might be sure of the man who had Squires in charge explained that the Australian was a bulldog fighter, who could take any kind of a beating, and without any skill could rush in and beat his opponent to death.

Squires' sparring partners were done and he did make the most of a showing, and Edgren was deceived.

It was not necessary to deceive anyone else. Other papers throughout the country were sent telegrams daily about Squires' condition and his ability.

The Native Sons were sticking together.

IT WAS impossible to get any information about Squires except what was handed out by his manager. Even photographs, which usually come out of Frisco by the bale full, were missing.

A counter attraction in the shape of the Britt-Nelson fight was arranged. It was called off. That was just a side matter, but it is believed that Nelson, Britt and Nelson are always open to persuasion if they can be made to see that they are in the wrong.

At all events nothing was allowed to mar the chances of a big gate at yesterday's fight. It should have been sent along for a few more rounds, so that the public would have blood for another one later.

But perhaps the men who now have charge of affairs in Frisco are going to shut off the graft in the fighting line and it was thought that Nelson, Britt and Nelson are always open to persuasion if they can be made to see that they are in the wrong.

And then the one-round affair. The only point that was badly managed was the fight itself. It should have been sent along for a few more rounds, so that the public would have blood for another one later.

But perhaps the men who now have charge of affairs in Frisco are going to shut off the graft in the fighting line and it was thought that Nelson, Britt and Nelson are always open to persuasion if they can be made to see that they are in the wrong.

FRISCO "SPORTS" ARE FEELING PRETTY BLUE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Many of the sports and followers of the fight game, whom it cost from $5 to $20 in addition to their railroad fare to see Tommy Burns, the Canadian, solve "Bill Squires, the Australian Mystery," in the first round at Colma yesterday, left today for their homes in Salt Lake, the Nevada gold fields, Los Angeles and other places. There were general expressions of disappointment and disgust among those who had come hundreds of miles to see what they believed would be a finish fight.

The morning papers declare "that the public was sold again," and call the fight a "fiasco," and the greatly overrated and widely heralded champion from the Antipodes is cartooned as a "lion" and "sizzer."

Took in $25,000.
The gross receipts of the fight were $25,000. Of this amount Burns' share was $800, which he was to receive with his loss, as he refused to accept percentage. Squires' share as loser was $1,000.34, and Jeffries received $10,000 as referee. Tom Corbett, who handled the bout at Colma, estimated that $72,000 changed hands on the fight. Barney Reynolds, Squires' manager, announced that the Australian lost $15,000.

"Well, we lost our money and have not much to take back to Australia," said Reynolds.

HE HAS BECOME A CRACK OARSMAN WITHIN TWO YEARS

HARRY FLOERKE of the Mound City Rowing Club is an example of what perseverance and hard training will do for a young oarsman. Two years ago, young Floerke, tall, slender and sallow, could hardly paddle a canoe, let alone a racing shell. Floerke could not swim and because of his lack of weight and strength he could not get a chance to pull a sweep in any of the large races or fours, and nobody had the nerve to double up with him in a pair or double.

Floerke's brother Emil is strong and husky and rows in the Mound City barge. Harry Floerke hung around the Mound City Rowing Club during his spare moments and finally secured a dilapidated single, which he patched up enough to go out on the water.

Floerke was the laughing stock of the club during 1905, while to his family his efforts to learn to be an oarsman caused great apprehension. When Floerke would take out his old single the boys along the bank would make a wager as to how long he would stay afloat. At first it was two minutes, but finally Floerke did better. Floerke adopted the rule to always row up the river so that when the frisky single would pitch him into the river he could grab the shell, float downstream and always rely on somebody from the club coming out in an old reliable skiff and towing him and his shell to shore. The shell, with its airtight compartments, always proved a good life preserver.

BLITT'S QUICK ACTION SAVES RACING SHELL

St. Louis Rowing Club Oarsman Dives Into the River to Pull Boat From in Front of Runaway Launch.

William Blitt's presence of mind and his nerve plunge into the current of the Mississippi River yesterday saved the new barge of the St. Louis Rowing Club from being smashed to splinters. The barge seats six oarsmen besides a coxswain and is valued at $400. The barge was built by an Eastern builder and was only received in St. Louis a short time ago.

The annual race for the Otto F. Stifel cup was rowed on the river yesterday over a two-mile course from the Merchants' Bridge to the Mound City Rowing Club, foot of Madison street. The members of the St. Louis Rowing Club were greatly interested in the race and it was decided to enter two crews for the event, one to use the new barge and the other the old one. It was necessary to put the two barges on a launch to carry them to the starting point, as it would have fired the oarsmen too much to row to the starting point.

The St. Louis Rowing Club is located at the foot of Chouteau avenue. Quite a crowd was present to give the wearers of the red jerseys a send off. Both barges had been shoved out on the water and William Blitt's launch, which was to carry the new barge, was being towed by the launch. The launch was heading rapidly for the center of the new barge and would surely have cut it in two but for the quick action of Will Blitt, the diminutive coxswain of the club, who, dressed for the race, was standing on the shore.

Blitt took the situation in a glance and while the other big oarsmen stood apparently rooted Blitt took a run and dived into the river. Three or four powerful strokes took him to the bow of the boat, which he gave a hard shove. The barge shot forward, but not entirely clear of the launch, which hit the bow with a crash, tearing off several feet of the light cedar from which the boats are constructed. The shock sent Blitt below the surface of the river for a few seconds. He came up and swam with the broken shell into shore, where his clubmates made a hero of him for the remainder of the day.

The St. Louis Rowing Club barge crew was as follows: Frank Jaeger, bow; Joe Lepping, No. 2; O. Yackey, No. 3; Fred Suerig, No. 4; Emil Floerke, No. 5; C. Amann, stroke, and Will Hamilton, coxswain.

THE ST. LOUIS
LOSE OUT TODAY

Gradually Floerke learned to keep his shell afloat, and from being ducked in the river so often he learned to swim. Early last season he bought a new shell. In the annual championship races of the Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association at Creve Coeur lake last year Floerke, greatly to the surprise of everybody, won the junior single scull championship in easy fashion. His style was perfect, and he rowed with a long, steady stroke, and finished comparatively fresh.

This year Floerke has been training for some time. He will compete in the senior single scull event at Creve Coeur on July 20, 21. Floerke will be opposed to John L. Joachim of the Westerns, Fred Zimmerman of Quincy and Herman Kirtman of the North Ends, all oarsmen who have had years of experience.

Floer will also compete in the quarter-mile dash for singles. It is in the quarter-mile event that Floerke is expected to make his best showing, as while Floerke is now strong and pulls a heavy stroke, he can hardly beat the older and seasoned oarsmen in the mile and a half championship race which towards the finish is a grind. So far Floerke has been thrown out of his single but once in training, and that was when he ran a small log through his shell on the Mississippi. The boat was repaired, and his friends are watching with interest his work this season.

IN OUR SET
BEING LITTLE STORIES OF PEOPLE IN THE SPORT WORLD.

KNABE of the Philadelphia is one of those players addicted to bringing spectators to their feet with wizard-like feats on the ball field. There is an individuality about his work, which is such a notable characteristic of Hal Chase's playing. In short, he is a "card."

THAT WANT of continuity of thought lives in the feminine mind was illustrated by the remark of a woman spectator at a ball game here the other day. "Do you like baseball?" she asked her escort. "Yes," he replied, "I like it very much." "Do you know," she answered, "I like sham battles better."

MIKE KELLEY had an American Association record of batting safely in 22 successive games. Friel of Columbus hit safely in 23 games this year, but he quit on "Win" Kellum.

UMPIRE OWENS of the Eastern League staff was hit in the groin by a pitched ball at Buffalo, Tuesday, and was removed to a hospital, where it was found that he was badly injured.

JIMMY CASEY, the Brooklyn captain, is playing better ball just now than he has been doing for the last three years. He has been banging out the ball for doubles and triples, and besides is fielding his position admirably.

FINDLAYSON of the Poughkeepsie team has a remarkable record up to date this season. He has pitched six games, shutting out five teams. He should have had six shutouts had it not been for two errors. This game, however, he won by 6 to 2. A pitcher who hasn't had an earned run against him in six games is doing phenomenal work. Only five men reached third base in the six games that he pitched. He is not 15 years old yet.

MARTIN SHERIDAN, the Irish-American Athletic Club's hero of the Olympic games at Athens, yesterday won the allround athletic championship of the United States at Celtic Park, Long Island City. He scored 733½ points in the 10 events through which he was compelled to go in order to gain the coveted honor at stake. This is a record and lies above his performance at Boston two years ago by 310 points. Under different conditions Sheridan would have surely broken one or more single records or forced some other athlete to do so, for his training had cut him out for such work. It happened that Richard Cotter of the Irish-American Athletic Club was the only other entrant who appeared against the champion, and he did not develop a form that would have qualified him as a runner-up.

HONEY MELODY of Boston, the claimant of the welterweight title, defeated Jim Donovan of England last night in the seventh round at Brown's gymnasium, at Rockaway Beach, New York. In that round the Boston boy landed a rather hard right-hand swing on the foreigner's jaw, and Donovan fell to the floor, and was knocked out, but the referee stopped the bout. The American had the better of the bout throughout, but Donovan was a worthy opponent and displayed great cleverness and stamina.

ACCORDING to the Cincinnati Star "Send Him to Washington" is the cry of the knoppers of Pittsburgh whenever one of the Pirates fails to do just what the fans expect.

CROSS says Cantillon has a great deal of trouble with his men and this is largely responsible for the club's low standing, as it contains excellent material.

WOMAN SHOT HOLDING BABY

Stray Bullet Causes Immigrant to Realize What Independence Day Is.

Mrs. Elizabeth Knaus, who came from Austria six weeks ago, is at the City Hospital studying the American plan of celebrating Independence day. She was seated on the front steps of her flat at 401 Florissant avenue Thursday evening, holding her 9-month-old baby, and watching her neighbors celebrate with fireworks.

A stray bullet from a rifle struck Mrs. Knaus a few inches below the right shoulder and missed passing through her lungs by less than an inch.

The baby was uninjured, though from the position in which Mrs. Knaus was holding the child, the bullet passed very close to its head.

Mrs. Knaus was hurried to the City Hospital, where her injury was dressed.

PLEASURE SEEKERS SEE MAN KILLED

Teamster Shoots Jeweler Through Heart in Presence of 500 Persons and Escapes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch, PIEDMONT, Mo., July 5.—Five hundred pleasure seekers at a picnic at Mill Springs, eight miles south of here, yesterday fell back before the brandished revolver of Charles McCabe, and allowed him to escape to the woods after he had just shot J. M. Boatwright, a jeweler and watchmaker, through the heart.

McCabe is a teamster. He and a brother of the dead man quarreled the day before the killing. The slain man was present and threats were made.

When they finally came together Boatwright is said to have removed his coat to show he was unarmed and to invite his opponent to a fair fight. McCabe then seized Boatwright by the throat and held him, according to witnesses, while he shot him through the heart. McCabe has not been captured.

AMERICAN FINANCIER WHOSE YACHT WAS SEARCHED IN ITALY

MORGAN'S YACHT SEARCHED IN ITALY

Authorities Believed He Was Getting Away With Valuable Works of Art.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World, Copyright, 1907, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, July 5.—A Milan dispatch to the Daily Chronicle reads: "A great sensation has been caused here by the overhauling of J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht Corsair recently by the customs authorities at Venice on special orders from the Central Government at Rome."

The search was made on the yacht's storeroom, a few weeks ago, and visits to Italy and the frequent presence of his yacht in Adriatic and Mediterranean waters occasioned grave suspicions on the part of the Italian Government, which has been more than ordinarily watchful of late owing to the notable growth of the clandestine export trade in precious works of art.

"It is stated that a search warrant was issued in the present case owing to the supposition that Mr. Morgan had purchased a portion of the famous Strozzi art collection from that Prince's Florentine gallery a few weeks ago."

The customs officers had to retire discomfited, for, although the baggage and other property of Mr. Morgan and his guests were thoroughly ransacked and the yacht's departure delayed for over a day, there was no trace of the missing treasures.

"Mr. Morgan vows that henceforth he will boycott the country on which he has lavished such magnificent proofs of his honor and generosity."

BATTLED WITH HOTEL BURGLAR

C. M. Dreyer Came Out of Fray at the Grand With Fractured Nose.

Awakened by the noise of a chair being knocked over, Charles M. Dreyer of 5007 Maple avenue grappled with a burglar whom he found in a room at the Grand Hotel, Sixth and Pine streets, Thursday night. After the struggle Dreyer's nose was found to have been fractured. His watch, knife and $2.75 were missing.

Wallace Sullivan, alias Strong, 23 years old, who was arrested in another room of the hotel, denies he was the burglar. Dreyer's watch and knife were found in Sullivan's possession.

Dreyer had just gone to sleep when he was awakened. He jumped from bed and grabbed the intruder. A fierce fight followed. Dreyer and the burglar rolled all about the room in each other's grasp. Both fell over the chair, which the burglar had previously stumbled against, and Dreyer loosened his hold for a moment. The burglar lost no time in dealing Dreyer a heavy blow on the nose and fled.

BREAKS UP ITALIAN CELEBRATION

Listeners Become Enraged at Labor Union Address of Speaker.

Antonio Bonanna, one of the speakers at the celebration of the Garibaldi centenary by St. Louis Italians, at Bloomer's Grove, Thursday, caused discord by saying that the willingness of Italian immigrants to take the place of striking employees was the cause of ill-feeling against them. He implied that it would be for the betterment of the race in America were more consideration given to the labor union by the Italians.

The speech was received with mingled hisses and applause. The committee terminated the program at once to avoid disturbance, and Bonanna did not finish his address.

GLASS CUT VAN CLEAVE FAMILY

Their $7000 Auto Collided With Street Car.

Harry Van Cleave, son of James W. Van Cleave, president of Buck's Store and Range Co., driving the new $7000 Van Cleave automobile at Plymouth and Hadlamont avenues, collided with a Hamilton car, shattering the glass windshield on the face, head and hands, and the other occupants of car were bruised and lacerated.

The collision occurred Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Van Cleave, another son and daughter were in the machine. It was not overturned.

J. L. Schuler's Son Dead.

Joseph L. Schuler Jr., aged 15, son of the Republican central committee man from the Fifth Ward, died Thursday at his home, 1000 Clark avenue, from lung trouble.

COFFEE COMPLEXION

Many Ladies Have Poor Complexions From Coffee.

"Coffee caused dark colored blotches on my face and body. I had been drinking it for a long while and these blotches gradually appeared, until finally they became permanent and were about as dark as coffee itself."

"I formerly had as fine a complexion as one could ask for."

"When I became convinced that coffee was the cause of my trouble, I changed and took to using Postum Food Coffee, and as I made it well, according to directions, I liked it very much, and have since that time used it in place of coffee."

"I am thankful to say I am not nervous any more, and my complexion is now as fair and good as it was years ago. It is very plain that coffee caused the trouble."

Most bad complexions are caused by some disturbance of the stomach, and coffee is the greatest disturber of digestion known. Almost any woman can have a fair complexion if she will leave off coffee and use Postum Food Coffee and nutritious, healthy food in proper quantity. Postum furnishes certain elements from the natural grains from the field that Nature uses to rebuild the nervous system, and when that is in good condition, one can depend upon a good complexion as well as a good healthy body. OFFICERS' MARCH TO SEA PROTESTED

Confederate Veterans Object to Soldiers Covering Gen. Sherman's Route.

Special to the Post-Dispatch, CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 5.—President Roosevelt or the War Department likely will be requested today by prominent Confederate veterans to stop further progress of 25 United States Army officers, who arrived here yesterday from the staff school at Fort Leavenworth and took up a march over Gen. Sherman's famous route to the sea.

Widespread criticism was caused about a year ago when Rev. Father Arthur Sherman, son of the Federal commander, started the same march his father led when the General devastated the South. It was of such proportions that fear was expressed for the safety of the party and the undertaking was abandoned.

Maj. D. H. Boughton of the Eleventh Cavalry, who is in charge of the march, believes that the reception accorded the officers will be cordial at every step, and he believes officers will make the march at least once a year.

The officers went to Lytle, Ga., late this afternoon, where the first camp was pitched. They were joined there by 24 men and a wagon train from the Twelfth Cavalry. The officers, with the wagon, will leave Lytle at noon today, and expect to arrive at Buzzard's Roost, a short distance this side of Dalton, Ga., before nightfall. They will camp there until Saturday and then proceed to a point about twelve miles south of Dalton, where they will remain until Monday. The remainder of the trip will be made in station stages.

CELEBRATION AT ST. BARBARA'S

Archbishop Glennon Talks on Liberty of American Catholics.

In an address at the dedication of St. Barbara's Catholic Church, Archbishop Glennon said Thursday:

"The struggle for this nation's survival has been sustained by Catholic lives and Catholic hearts, and the Catholic Church in its inner life, prays for, hopes for, and is willing to fight that this liberty may continue even unto the latest day."

Other prominent members of the Catholic clergy present were Rev. J. J. McGinn, former pastor of St. Barbara's parish, and Rev. John Schramm, who came from the East. A short address was also delivered by Father Schramm, in which he congratulated the people of St. Barbara's upon the completion of their church.

A banquet was given at the Hamilton Hotel yesterday at noon, in honor of Archbishop Glennon and the visiting clergy.

Fifty-Year Jubilee.

A Cigar Wrapper Often Covers a Multitude of Sins

You know quite well that there are many cigars sold for five cents that are very poor quality. They are sold on appearance. A fine appearing wrapper, a handsome gold band or a pretty box-lid may cover a multitude of sins, but it is the filler, the inside of a cigar, that determines its smoking quality.

Modern manufacture exemplified in the American Cigar Company's products has grown way above this unfortunate method of doing business and assures a cigar that is honest all through.

The "Triangle A" merit mark on a box of cigars means that every sprig of leaf in every cigar in the box was graded especially by experts for that one brand, two years before it was made; that during this time the leaf has mellowed in great, clean warehouses in a perfect temperature till all its finest qualities are brought to a point of perfection.

These are some of the reasons why "Triangle A" cigars smoke with the fine mellow flavor that you thought was only to be found in expensive brands; why every "Triangle A" cigar has an even flavor and aroma from end to end; why every cigar of each "Triangle A" brand smokes just the same.

"Triangle A" cigars cost you no more than the "mixed" cigars—though they are worth twice as much.

Look for the "A" (Triangle A) when you buy cigars.

"Triangle A" brands offer the widest obtainable range of choice, and absolutely dependable quality in whatever brand suits your taste. You'll never find a better brand to make the test with than

The New CREMO

Every box is now extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red. The cigars are kept clean, fresh and in perfect smoking condition until the box is opened.

Large Scale Saving

"Save your money. Save all you can. $5,000 a year is not too much for some of you to save. If there is a man selling our goods who cannot save at least $2,000 a year let him look for some other business. If you live up to $5,000 a year you cannot save $2,000. Accumulate something and get ahead in the world, so that you can live better, do more for your children, and acquire a competence for a comfortable old age or the rainy day."

So said the general manager of a large manufacturing concern recently in talking to his salesmen.

It is not alone the wage-earner or man with only a moderate income to whom the idea of saving money regularly should appeal. In most cases the larger the income the larger the living expenses and the greater need to make adequate preparation for the future.

If you have not already adopted some plan for systematic saving, such as setting aside a certain amount for your monthly expenses and saving everything above that, why not begin to-day? Then deposit your savings in the $56,000,000 National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis and get certificates of deposit drawing interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

A Commercial Prayer.....

O Powers That Be, make me sufficient to my own occasions. Teach me to know and to observe the Rules of the Game.

Give me to mind my own business at all times and to lose no good opportunity of holding my tongue.

Grant me not to cry for the moon or over spilled milk.

Help me neither to proffer nor to welcome cheap praise; to distinguish sharply between sentiment and sentimentality, cleaving to the one and despising the other.

When it is appointed me to suffer, let me, so far as may be possible, take example from the good and well-bred beasts, and go away quietly, to be my suffering by myself.

Give me to be always a good comrade, and to view the passing show with an eye constantly growing keener, a charity profound and deepening day by day.

Help me to win, if I may win; but—and this, O Powers, especially—if I may not win, make me a good loser.

TWO EARTHQUAKES SHAKE BISMARCK

Rattle Windows and Dishes in Town Near St. Louis, but Nothing Is Broken; Shocks Travel East.

Two distinct earthquake shocks, of considerable duration and violence, were felt at Bismarck, Mo., 60 miles south of St. Louis, Thursday afternoon. The vibration was sufficient to shake the buildings and rattle the windows and dishes. No damage was done. According to Dr. J. L. Eaton, a member of the State Board of Health, the shock seemed to be passing from the west toward the east.

The first and lighter shock was felt a little before 3 p. m. The second disturbance, which lasted three or four seconds, was observed at 3:06 p. m.

Bismarck is a town of about 1200 and most of its buildings are frame. Edward H. Bowie, local weather forecast official, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the Weather Bureau had no record of any earthquake disturbances in St. Louis or vicinity. The office, he said, had received no inquiries concerning an earthquake.

Rev. Martin S. Brennan, an authority on seismic matters, said that if an ordinary earthquake had visited St. Louis Thursday it might have been taken for part of the Fourth of July celebration.

RAISED PRICES TO KEEP AWAY HIS CUSTOMERS

Witness Says His Firm Discriminated to Get Rid of Buyers Not Liked.

N. O. Nelson testified before Special Commissioner Kammmerer in the suit for damages of the Coyne Bros. against the Crane company, plumbing supply dealer, for alleged illegal refusal to sell them goods, that he (Nelson) refused to sell goods to anybody he didn't want to sell to.

"If I had to sell to everybody who came along," he said, "I'd quit the business."

Coyne Bros., through their attorney, A. R. Taylor, are trying to show that all the plumbing supply houses of St. Louis have an agreement not to sell to plumbers not members of the Master Plumbers' Association.

Nelson denied that the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co. refused to sell any non-member of that association "as such." He said he wouldn't "be up there long"—meaning, it is supposed, that he wouldn't be in business long, if he had to sell to "everybody who comes in." He said some plumbers were "too full of claims or too disreputable" to sell to.

Would Quit First.

An interesting colloquy followed the Nelson testimony. He was asked "certainly not the business if the states required me to sell to everybody."

"O, I wouldn't quit," Taylor said. "We couldn't get along without you."

"I wish you'd be a little more civil to me," retorted Nelson. "I'm a citizen."

"Well, you've been firing back at me," Taylor said.

"Yes, and you've been firing at me," responded Nelson.

Nelson was questioned about the sale of a one-half inch hose coil to Joseph Walsh, formerly in the plumbing business at St. Louis. He said that the Nelson firm charged him a dollar for it. It was stated that the price the same day at the Crane company was 40 cents. The witness admitted that if he didn't want to sell to a person he raised the price as to make it prohibitive. He admitted that the price of $1 for the particular coil was excessive, but denied any familiarity with the details of prices of specific plumbing goods.

Worth 40 Cents Only.

"How did you reconcile the conduct of your firm to Nelson, in taking $1 for an article worth only 40 cents?" asked Taylor.

"I didn't have to reconcile it," the witness responded.

"Did you ever examine into the wickedness of the salesman who charged the exorbitant price?" Taylor asked.

"Sennet Taylor, Nelson's attorney, objected to this question and was sustained."

Nelson was shown a book containing a copy of the "joint agreement" of the United States Bank and the Lewis Publishing Co. to be quashed on the grounds that such a legal enforcement violates the rights of the two men.

SAGER JUST TAKE NEW ICE TRUST CHARGES

Court Again Postpones Case Against the Merchants' Company.

The Merchants' Ice and Coal Co. scored a point on Circuit Attorney Sager Thursday when Circuit Judge McDonald sustained a motion requiring Mr. Sager to make his second amended petition more definite. This means that after a year of sparring in court and after the petition has been twice amended, the pleadings are not in shape for the case to be tried.

The second amended petition alleged that the Merchants company entered into arrangement with the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. on April 13, 1905, to fix and maintain ice prices and that such agreements were made at such subsequent meetings, up to July 15, 1906. The Merchants company claimed that the petition did not make it clear whether one offense or many was charged and complained of the absence of dates.

It looked ambiguous to Judge McDonald and he sustained the motion to make more definite. Mr. Sager will now have to fix up his petition before anything more can be done.

The case has been set for trial five times. It was first originally July 24, 1906. Both companies were made defendants. Penalties aggregating $71,000 were sued for.

The first amended petition was filed Feb. 25, 1907. The period for which penalties were claimed was enlarged to the amount sued for was $124,700. The Polar Wave company demurred to the petition on the ground that the cause of action, if there was one, ceased to exist last July 15, 1906. The demurrer was passed on by Mr. Sager dismissed as to the Polar Wave company and filed his second amended petition, in which the Merchants' company was made the sole defendant.

The indefiniteness of this petition provoked Mr. Sager to make more definite, now sustained.

A case against the Polar Wave company, pending in Judge Foster's court.

BURIAL PERMITS.

Eugene P. 7, 1919 Cora; pneumonia. Katie Hoffman, 6, 705 Chouteau; bronchitis. The St. Louis Druggists and the Stockyards will play a game of baseball at Alta St. Park Saturday at 3 p. m.

In a fit of despondency caused by illness, Mrs. Lizzie Roche of 1022 Bond avenue shot her husband in the left breast Thursday in an attempt to take her own life. She left a note to her mother, explaining that illness was the cause of her act. Neighbors heard the shot and found her lying on a bed in her room, where it is thought she will recover. She is 26 years old and has two children, but has not been living with her husband for several years.

LEWIS WANTS TRIAL, IF ANY, IN CIRCUIT COURT

Magazine Publisher Appeals to Judge Dyer to Transfer Possible Indictment.

United States Judge Dyer refused to permit the filing before him, Friday morning, of motions by former Judge Shepard Barclay representing E. G. Lewis, for the transfer of the Lewis case to the United States Circuit Court. In the event that the Federal grand jury now in session returns indictments against his client.

All criminal cases are sent to the United States District Court, but there is a provision which permits a transfer of trial to the other court. Former Judge Lewis, special counsel for the Government, contended that such a transfer could not be done at the instance of the defendant. Judge Dyer would not hear the motion because of his previous connection as United States District Attorney, with the Lewis case.

Judge Barclay will make his motion next Monday morning before District Judge Triebel of Little Rock, who will come to St. Louis to entertain various hearings. The information against Lewis is which the Government has presented to the grand jury concerns the postage on the Lewis and Clark magazine and the Woman's Farm Journal. Judge Barclay has also asked that two subpoenas, one directed against Frank J. Cabot and the other against Theodore F. Meyer, requiring them to produce in court the books and papers of the United States Bank and the Lewis Publishing Co. be quashed on the grounds that such a legal enforcement violates the rights of the two men.

POST-DISPATCH'S RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STOCK PRICES ARE HIGHER; NO WAR SCARE SEELING

Opening Figures Show Gains of 1/4 to 1 Point Over List—Ordering Atlantic Squadron to Pacific Did Not Affect Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The stock market opened higher Friday. It was not a close opening, but freely higher all the way round, the advance averaging 1/4 to 1 point.

Some of the commission houses anticipated active selling of stocks on account of the orders given to the Atlantic squadron of the American Navy to move into the Pacific Ocean, the belief being that some might look on the move as a threat toward Japan, or as having something to do with the Japanese situation. This was based on the presumption that the statement the squadron was to remain but a month in the Pacific would not make clear the Government's purpose, which has nothing to do with and doesn't recognize a "Japanese situation."

The higher opening here was forecasted by a firm to higher opening in London. A number of New York commission houses who have been conservative during the past 10 days, are plainly on the bull side of the market today, and not a few have advised their correspondents in their opinion prices are going higher.

The first half hour of the market showed good advances for most issues above the high openings and a market extremely active as well as of excellent tone.

OUR GREAT $11.00 SUIT SALE

The Banner Clothing Event of the Year—On a More Lavish Scale and With Greater Buying Opportunities Than Ever Before—Begins Saturday Morning at Famous

THE importance of this sale to the buying public of St. Louis cannot be too strongly emphasized. It's the most remarkable bargain occasion of the entire year—immense clothing stocks, larger and better than have ever remained on hand after July 4th, owing to the backward weather, will be spread out for your choosing when this unusual sale is launched at Famous Saturday morning.

PROFITS are absolutely abandoned now—costs disregarded and tremendous losses are being borne good-naturedly in our endeavor to hurriedly close out these splendid Suits. Every garment presented in this sale bears Famous' label, insuring the lasting service, fashion correctness, character and reliance of these meritorious clothes. Twice each year—and only twice—are such values presented to the people.

YOUR UNRESTRICTED CHOICE OF THOUSANDS OF THIS SEASON'S CLEVEREST AND FASHIONABLY CORRECT

$15.00, $18.00, $20.00 AND $22.50 SUITS

For Men and Young Men—Saturday at Famous—and they're positively the greatest suit bargains experienced in St. Louis in years. Choice of any at the unexampled low price of

Dress, Business and Outing Suits

All from our own magnificent stocks—the choicest products of America's most ingenious clothes builders—hand-tailored—typical Summer clothes; just the correct weight for comfort during the hot days—Famous guarantees these Suits to give just as much satisfaction as though you paid $15, $18, $20 and $22.50, their former prices. Included are the proper single and double-breasted models—built of silk-mixed Worsteds, Fancy Cassimeres, Scotch Cheviots, imported English Blue Serges and Black Tibbets; also Summer Outing (coat and pants) Suits with quarter-lined coats of Tropical Worsteds, French Flannels and Scotch Homespuns, in the noblest pattern effects. Come and inspect these truly marvelous values—Suits actually worth $15, $18, $20 and $22.50—Saturday at Famous, choice of any, $11.

Included in This Exceptional Sale Are ALL SIZES

To fit men of every build and proportion. Attend Saturday while assortments are at their best.

Our Semi-Annual Pants Sale which continues Saturday offers Men's and Young Men's

$4 and $5 Pants for $2.65

This sale is the result of two very exceptional purchases and, from a value-giving standpoint, far surpasses any similar event experienced in St. Louis in months. These splendid Pants are built of all-wool worsteds, cassimeres, Scotch cloths and tropical worsteds, in a wealth of nobby and effective stripes, checks and invisible plaids—colors and patterns to please every fancy. These Pants are expertly tailored throughout, graceful draping and accurate fitting—fashioned in strict accordance with this season's correct models—with or without cuff bottoms and belt loops—some cut low-waisted to wear without suspenders—regulation or outing styles—Pants that are absolutely worth $4 and $5—Saturday, at Famous, choice of several thousand for
